Attorney for Mrs. Skeels-Lundgren Makes Final Argument in Her Defence

Lawrence, July 2.—In a court room packed with spectators, Daniel J. Daley, counsel for Mrs. Bessie May (Skeels) Lundgren, today made his final plea for her freedom.

Mrs. Lundgren, dressed in a pale gown of gray crepe de chine, sat well back from the bar enclosure, leaving the side of her counsel for the first time since the trial began on June 2. She bore an enormous bunch of rambler roses. She faced the ordeal with unshaken composure.

Lawyers and medical men from all over the State occupied the seats in the bar enclosure anxious to hear the arguments.

CITES HEAVY EXPENSES.

Mr. Daley began by recalling to the jury the fact that 104 witnesses have been heard and that the trial now represents one of the most expensive in the history of the Commonwealth.

Expert witness fees, expert testimony and travel fees for witnesses from all over the State and from Bayonne, N. J., as well, have rolled up the total expense to a large sum.

"The game is on," said Mr. Daley. "This defendant is only a pawn, moved about here and there, trampled upon and crushed, in the interests of the game.

"In the first place, Dr. Abbott made a death return in the case of Florence W. Gay, in which he gave cerebral hemorrhage and tuberculosis was tuberculosis mentioned.

At the autopsy he said he went to verify his diagnosis, and never again.

"We heard in the opening of the Attorney-General that the government would prove that Mrs. Bessie M. Skeels had 'exclusive opportunity' for the administering of arsenic to Florence W. Gay. You must eliminate from your mind, then, the opportunity of Mrs.

MRS. WALTER E. RUSSLING, formerly Miss Edith Helen Forbes, bride of runaway marriage, and her husband.

Brookline friends of Miss Edith Helen Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zeph E. Forbes of No. 61 Brookstreet, were surprised today when the fact of her elopement and marriage at Burlington, June 21, became generally known. Miss Forbes is now Mrs. Walter E. Russling, and the wedding was the culmination of a romance that began when Mr. Russling was on naval duty in Cambridge in 1917.

The bride's father is water registrar of Brookline.

Mr. and Mrs. Forbes were not taken into the confidence of the young couple when they made their wedding plans. When Miss Forbes, who is a graduate of the Brookline High School, class of 1916, left her home on the afternoon of June 21, she told her parents that she was going to a dance that night. The dancing was done at her own wedding that evening. The marriage took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emery of Burlington, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. L. Pickett of the Unitarian Church, Woburn.

Mr. Russling, who is employed by the Blake Knowles Pump Company of East Cambridge, is the son of Mrs. T. C. Russling of Walden, N. Y.

DEMPSEY COIN GOES BEGGING

Hundreds of Thousands Offered On Challenger at Even Money Has No Takers

By FRANK G. MENKE,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

Toledo, O., July 2.—If you know of any one who wants to wager at even money that Jess Willard triumphs over Jack Dempsey on July 4 "shove" him into Toledo. Then you'll be obliging at least one of the several thousand persons who yearn with feverish yearning to plunge on the champion.

At least $1,000,000 Dempsey money is in cold storage here held for even money. It is the fear of the Dempseyites that unless they offer about 2 to 1 on the "Utah mauler" they won't get even a small portion of it placed. And they are holding off making their offerings below even money, hoping that late arrivals may bring some of Willard cash.

The great Toledo game just now is locating a man with money who wants to stake it on the champion at even. Some of the big plungers have even gone so far as to offer commissions to anyone who will steer their way a man who wants to stick a bankroll on the champ. And more than that. Some of those who like Dempsey and are keen to back him, are going to the extreme now of meeting all incoming trains and "hankering" their offers on even money just like a sandwich vender would hawk hot wares.

OFFERS $100,000.

"What's the matter anyway," queries Chrisler of Chicago, who brought $100,000 to stick on Dempsey. "Here we are offering even money on the smaller man—and no one wants it. Never before in fight history has a champion been less than two to one. Now he's even money—and no one wants him."

Those who have failed to get down straight bets on the outcome of the

Strike of the Union Telegraphers Is Called Off

By International News Service.

New York, July 2.—Percy Thomas, deputy international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, announced today that the strike of the union telegraphers against the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Company was called off at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

WHARF AT QUINCY POINT GOES UP IN FLAMES

Fire on the Quincy Point wharf today destroyed a coal tower, partly burned the coal barge Annapolis and gave the Quincy Fire Department one of the hardest fights they have had in years. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

The wharf was a veritable fire box, stored with thousands of tons of coal used by the power house of the Eastern Massachusetts Electric Railway Company, formerly the Bay State street railway. The power house, which furnishes the power for the entire Old Colony district, was for a time threatened, but its fireproof construction enabled the firemen to save it.

Smoke became so dense that the Quincy firemen were forced to don their gas masks to get near enough to the blaze to hose the coal.

A tug from the Fore River plant assisted in quenching the flames. The barge Annapolis was towed out in the stream, where the blaze was soon diminished with no slight damage.

PERSHING MOVES TO PARIS

Will Return to America Next Month; 6,000 Men to Remain at Front

Paris, July 2.—General John J. Pershing officially announced today that the 4th Division of the American army would sail for home within a few days. The 1st, 2d and 3d Divisions probably will follow within a month or six weeks.

"The 4th Army of Occupation, as it was originally constituted, ended today," he said.

"We do not want to give the impression that we are going away to give the job to somebody else," said Pershing. "Our flag is here, our duty is here and our honor is here. We are not going away until it has been demonstrated to our entire satisfaction that the Germans are living up to the treaty terms."

The American Army of Occupation will gradually be reduced until the regiments and their auxiliaries approximate a total of 2,500 or 6,000 men.

General Pershing will leave for home in August or September, General Hunter Liggett, commander of the First Army, will be relieved at his command at his own request, as he desires to return to the United States soon. He will be replaced by General Read Altken. It is announced General Pershing's headquarters are being moved from Chaumont to Paris.

A brief step toward civilian conditions was taken today when the army censorship was lifted. Brest is now the only port of embarkation for Americans.

AIRSHIP IS HINDERED BY FOG

But R-34 Has Made Good, Major Scott Reports by Wireless

By International News Service.

London, July 2.—The giant British dirigible R-34, which left East Fortune, Scotland, at 1:48 this morning for the United States, was about 550 land miles from its starting point at 2:15 this afternoon, according to a message received from her commander, and was sailing westward without any trouble.

"The R-34 has made good," said another message from Major Scott, the airship's commander, sent at 1 p. m., reporting that the dirigible up to that hour had covered about 400 nautical miles.

"TRUE SPEED" 31 KNOTS.

Scott wirelessed at 1 o'clock that his "average speed" was 42 knots an hour.

Another message, flashed from the forward gondola of the airship at 2:15 this afternoon, Greenwich time), reported her position as latitude 55.36 north, longitude 17.50 west, and said that her "true speed" was thirty-one knots. The expression "true speed" was taken to mean the actual rate at which the R-34 is driving toward the civilian coast. It was taken today when the army censorship was lifted. Brest is now the only port of embarkation for Americans.

STATE PUTS CASE ON FILE

Alleged Accessory Freed Because of Testimony Against Barney

Joseph F. Hurley, who was indicted as an accessory both before and after the killing of Police Officer Charles E. Deininger, was freed today. Assistant District Attorney William S. Kinney placed the indictment on file.

The fact that Hurley testified for the Commonwealth at the trial of Herman L. Barney and John F. Dillon, the principals in the alleged crime, influenced the action of Mr. Kinney.

PLAN TO SHOW NC-4 ON BOSTON COMMON

Plans for the exhibition of the famous seaplane NC-4, the first to make a trans-Atlantic flight, on Boston Common in the near future are under way, according to information from the Mayor's office. Mayor Peters today sent the following letter to Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels:

"The citizens of Boston greatly appreciate arrangements being made by the Navy Department to exhibit the NC-4 in this city. Ample provision for complete exhibition of the seaplane could be made on Boston Common and I am certain that such an exhibition would prove exceedingly beneficial to the naval branch of the service."

Court Approves New Claims for $64,789 on Bay State Co.

Judge James M. Morton, Jr., of the United States District Court has approved additional allowances amounting to $61,789 in connection with the Bay State Street Railway Company receivership proceedings. Recently Judge Morton approved an allowance of $50,000 as compensation for Wallace B. Donham, the receiver, in addition to partial compensation previously received at the rate of $15,000 a year.

The latest allowances, which are chiefly for services rendered and expenses incurred in connection with the foreclosure sale at Salem, when the Bay State property was purchased by Arthur Gilduen, representing Lee, Higginson & Co. (though it includes an allowance of $35,000 to Currier & Young, counsel for the receiver, in addition to all amounts paid or to be paid on monthly bills for services and disbursements rendered, no record of which appears in the papers covering the general allowances).

The list of the allowances is as follows:

American Trust Co., $5,141.
Old Colony Trust Co., $4,894.
Lopes, Gray, Hayden & Perkins, as before and and counsel for allow trust companies, $25,000.
Clement R. Lawson, as solicitor and counsel for trust companies, $1,100.
Gardner, Pierce & Thurnley, as counsel for the Bay State, $50.
Johnson, Clapp & Underwood, counsel for Archibald McNeil & Sons Co., $400.
Wm. Weld Richardson, counsel for Bay State, $500.

PALMER WILL BRING TEST SUITS TO FIX STATUS OF LIQUOR SALES

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE WILL MARK TIME

Washington, July 2.—Attorney-General Palmer has indicated his intention of bringing at least one test case on the sale of beverages containing more than ½ of 1 per cent. of alcohol in United States District Court jurisdictions, where such cases are not now pending.

Attorney-General Palmer expressed the hope that Congress would pass pending wartime enforcement legislation to do away with all existing uncertainties. At the same time the "dry" in the House decided to put through as soon as possible separate legislation prohibiting the sale of any beverage containing more than ½ of 1 per cent. of alcohol.

The prohibition enforcement policy of the Department of Justice, in effect, to mark time until more light is thrown upon what constitutes an intoxicating beverage, either by test cases or by acts of Congress, it was pointed out at the Department of Justice that further test cases would be necessary in order that the enforcement police should crystallize into definite shape.

It also was pointed out that the decision of Judge Hand was entirely adverse to the contention of the Department of Justice that beer containing 2.75 per cent. of alcohol is intoxicating, makes it all the more necessary that test cases be instituted in other jurisdictions.

NO WHOLESALE ARRESTS.

Attorney General Palmer made it clear today that the Department of Justice will not attempt wholesale arrests while there remains a question as to whether 2.75 per cent. beer is intoxicating.

We propose to make arrests of persons who violate the wartime prohibition law according to our interpretation thereof," said Attorney-General Palmer. "The department does not wish, however, to be compelled to feel the heel that that weight has been put upon it.

"We will proceed in an orderly fashion to establish whether intoxicating beverages containing more than one half of one per cent. of alcohol are intoxicating, and whether the law includes those having less than 2.75 per cent. alcohol.

Attorney-General Palmer had said previously that if a decision in the Baltimore cases was favorable to the government, the department would result promptly in all cases in which evidence had been gathered for the purpose of instituting or submitting for other agencies. He said that decisions in the Baltimore cases, if upheld by the Supreme Court, was to give a definite interpretation applicable to the entire country.

STANDARD BREWING CASE.

Attention of the Department of Justice was called to the fact that Judge Hand had sustained the demurrer of the Standard Brewing Company of Baltimore to the indictment by the United States Government for the manufacture of 2.75 per cent. beer.

While no further statement was issued by Attorney General Palmer it was recognized that this adverse decision would make it necessary for the Department to seek further light by test cases elsewhere.

It was admitted that it would be useless to institute other test cases elsewhere.

It was admitted that it would be useless to institute other test cases in the same jurisdiction because they would certainly reach the same decision which had decided against the government's contention.

This is a picture of President Wilson and his party on their recent visit to Belgium. They are in the forest of Hautholist, escorted by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth. The Queen is shown at the President's right. Mrs. Wilson is on his left. The tall figure in uniform facing Mrs. Wilson is King Albert. Photo by International Film Service.

Washington, July 2.—President Wilson will make his first address in favor of the ratification of the peace treaty at the Metropolitan opera house the evening of the day of his arrival.

The understanding is that the New York address will be general in character. The President will reserve his detailed argument for his address to the Senate.

The latest reports from the George Washington indicate that President Wilson will land on Monday.

The opposition of administration leaders is that the President will get a great demonstration in New York and that the demonstration will make an impression favorable to the treaty on the Senate and the country. Senate leaders are speculating on the action President Wilson will take in the looked-for event that there will be important reservations attached to the treaty before it is given the sanction of the Senate. They are wondering if he will sign it as President before returning it to the allied powers, relying upon their giving their approval to the reservations of the Senate, or whether he will forward it to the powers as intended without the presidential seal.

WILSON GOING DIRECT TO CAPITAL

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
Correspondent of the International News Service.

En Route With President Wilson to the United States, on Board the U. S. S. George Washington, July 1—Night (By Wireless to New York)—President Wilson today decided to board a special train for Washington immediately upon his arrival at Hoboken, instead of paying a short visit to New York city. The train will leave for the national capital as soon as the Presidential baggage is stowed on board.

President Wilson has begun to whip into form the message he will deliver to the joint session of Congress next week when he personally delivers the peace treaty to the Senate.

Keen interest was displayed by President Wilson in the wireless dispatch stating that Von Bethmann-Hollweg, former Chancellor of Germany, had offered to go on trial in place of the ex-Kaiser.

During the day the Presidents cleaned up the balance of the documents constituting the mail pouch put on board the George Washington by the steamship Great Northern yesterday. The included court-martial papers and documents from the department of justice.

The date of Mr. Wilson's coast-to-coast speaking tour has not yet been definitely decided, nor will it be until he arrives in Washington.

A long radiogram was received from Secretary Lansing today detailing Monday's developments in peace conference circles in Paris.

Washington, July 2.—Vice-President Marshall and all the members of the Cabinet will meet the President a few miles out at sea, Secretary Daniels announced today. They will make the trip aboard the dreadnought Pennsylvania.

GERMANY PLANS RATIFICATION THIS WEEK

By International News Service.

Berlin, July 2.—The German Cabinet has left for Weimar, with the intention of presenting the treaty of peace at the National Assembly for ratification this week.

Several members of the government said they believed the treaty would be ratified without a great struggle, but others predicted opposition from Centrists and Conservatives.

In some quarters it is even feared that the National Assembly, though it has already voted to accept the treaty, may now refuse to ratify, which is quite in keeping with the present grotesque and chaotic situation in which everyone is protesting violently against everything and going on strike on the slightest provocation.

The demand of the street car men is an instance. Each employe is demanding that the street car company give him $125 to pay his personal debts.

The railroad men declare their strike is not ended. Some trains, including those carrying food, are now running. The bank employes are expected to strike momentarily in protest against the arrest of one of their leaders, who is still in custody. Efforts are being made to prevent the proposed bank strike from becoming country-wide.

The political significance of these disturbances is enhanced by reports from Hungary that Soviet representatives are disbursing funds here. The German government is showing some uneasiness and Minister of Defence Noske has issued an order prohibiting the sale of firearms.

Thus far there has been no trouble, except that the striking street car men have stopped cabs and taxis, driving out the passengers and sent the drivers home. However, a repetition of the March disturbances is feared.

First Arrest Under War Prohibition Measure

By International News Service.

New York, July 2.—The first arrest here for violating the wartime prohibition measure was reported from Brooklyn. Detectives took in custody Leonard A. Steinberg, eighteen, whose father owns a liquor store. They said Steinberg sold them a half-pint flask of whiskey for seventy-five cents. He was arraigned today.

BROADWAY HARD HIT BY THE DRY LAW

New York's First Day Shows Big Falling Off of Receipts; One Hotel Bar Took in 30c.

By International News Service.

New York, July 2.—Broadway had its first "dry" night yesterday last night, and today proprietors of cafes strung all up and down the "Way White Ways" were sadly counting their receipts and agreeing that a desert is no place to grow luxuriant profits.

The bartender at the Ritz-Carlton dismally admitted that his total receipts on the first "dry" day were just 30 cents. Reisenweber's announced a falling off in receipts for the first twenty-four hours of about 4000. Many other big cafes were hit equally hard and the cash registers showed such small totals in a number of Broadway saloons that they failed to reopen for business today.

All the Broadway lobster palaces were crowded last night, but there was a lack of effervescent spirit. The police reported they had no more trouble than with a Sunday school picnic.

Beer and light wines were sold at all the cafes, in a few places something harder was sold to those "in the know," but in all of the leading centers of merriment guests found to their astonishment that they could purchase only soft drinks and tea.

Woman's Liquor Plea Fails Before Judge Logan

A plea that seven quarts of whiskey and quantities of other drinkables found in her store at No. 135 West Fourth street, South Boston, were to entertain her two daughters' fiances and their friends, failed to save Mrs. Ida Finkelstein today from being found guilty of keeping and exposing for sale liquors.

Mrs. Finkelstein, whose store was raided June 2, explained that her two pretty daughters, who were in court, were soon to be married, and there was to be a big party in honor of the event. She had read in the paper that liquor selling was to be stopped, so laid in a stock for the party.

But Judge Logan in South Boston Court couldn't believe it, and found her guilty. Then he placed the case on file.

Franklin Field Fatal Accident Repeated at Marfa, Texas

The fatal Franklin Field airplane accident has been repeated at Marfa, Tex. According to information reaching the Department of Military Aeronautics at Washington, a DeHaviland plane flying from San Antonio to Fort Bliss was obliged to make a forced landing at Marfa.

Pilot and observers were uninjured, but two Mexican boys were struck by the wings and killed.

Wednesday was wash day in this family and just about the time the laundress arrived, the woman of the house read one of our ads for dresses at $10.75.

She knew how fast things sell here, and she wanted this dress badly. She paid the laundress for the day's washing, told her to go home and come next Wednesday, hurried in town and got the dress, but it kept a big pile of washing waiting.

Point of this is that she really saved many dollars more than the washing cost when she got the dress for $10.75. Must be pretty extraordinary bargains to break up the household routine in this way. We mention this incident just to emphasize WALK THROUGH THE DAY FOR WHICH YOU SEE GOODS ADVERTISED AND WHENEVER YOU ARE IN TOWN.

BROCKTON MAN SLAIN IN HIS SLEEP; WIFE FINDS BODY

Brockton, July 2. Mystery deepened today in the tragedy of Alfred W. Raymond, who was found dead, with several wounds on his head, when his wife returned to supper to their home at No. 205 Pleasant street.

Medical Examiner A. E. Pulte performed an autopsy today. The police, meanwhile, probed the case vigorously. They sought some men with whom Raymond spent Monday and Tuesday.

Robbery appeared as a possible motive for foul play when it became known today that Raymond had about $45 Monday, while less than a dollar in change was found in his pockets when the body was discovered.

The last person to see him alive, so far as the police know now, was a little girl, child of a neighbor. She noticed him playing in his yard at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with his dog. From the child's description, Raymond seemed in good health and color, although he is said by the police to have been one of a party of men Monday who were drinking.

VICTIM WORKED NIGHTS.

Raymond worked nights at the W. W. Cross foot factory, near his home. He worked Monday night as usual. When his body was found it was clad in his working clothes, as though he had planned to go to the factory last night as usual.

Dr. Paine arrived at the house at 6:30 Tuesday night, fifteen minutes after Mrs. Raymond came upon the body of a coach in the house. Rigor mortis had set in to a marked degree, so that Dr. Paine estimated that the man had been dead two to three hours. That estimate left only an hour or two for the tragedy to ensue after the neighbor's child noticed Raymond in his yard at 2 o'clock.

Pending the medical examiner's autopsy, the wounds on Raymond's head are described by the police thus:

Two-inch cut below left temple, with hole in the middle of the cut penetrating about an inch.

Short cut under the three-inch cut.

One and one-half-inch cut on neck.

These are not clean cut, as though made by a knife, but jagged ones "like hatchet wire would make," said an officer, described them, or possibly like wounds which would have been received in falling on broken stone.

NO BLOOD TRAIL FOUND.

There is a pile of broken stone at the foot of the back steps to the house. Spots on the steps resemble blood stains. These circumstances caused some to think Raymond slipped on the worn steps and fell on the broken stone. But in that case, if he had staggered into the house and to the couch, he would presumably have left a trail of blood stains through the house. No such trail was found.

But his shirt was blood-soaked. There were blood stains on the couch. Blood was spattered on the wall paper above the couch. Hence the theory that the wounds were received while he was on the couch, possibly while asleep.

Mrs. Raymond was working all day yesterday, as was her sister, Mrs. Isabel Boyington, another member of the household. The son, Henry Raymond, about twenty-six years old, was working in Boston. He arrived home at early evening. Henry Seipel, father of Mrs. Raymond and Mrs. Boyington, a Grand Army veteran of eighty-four years, was at G. A. R. hall all the afternoon.

Deputy Marshal James F. Morey has taken personal charge of the investigation with Inspector George C. Chase of the police criminal department. The presence of Deputy Morey indicates the importance the police attach to it.

Thorough inquiry has revealed no trace so far of any stranger being in the immediate neighborhood between the time Raymond was last seen alive and the time his body was discovered.

"BAYER CROSS" ON GENUINE ASPIRIN

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" to be genuine must be marked with the safety "Bayer Cross." Always buy an unbroken Bayer package which contains proper directions to safely relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Colds and pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost but a few cents at drug stores — larger packages also. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

Salient Features of the Great British Dirigible R-34

Length—639 feet 5 inches.

Greatest diameter—78 feet 9 inches.

Total weight—30 tons.

Carrying capacity—21 tons.

Motive power — Five Sunbeam Maori engines of 250 horsepower each.

Gas capacity—2,000,000 cubic feet.

The R-34 is as big as the liner Adriatic and her length is greater than the height of the Singer building in New York city.

Her wireless is as powerful as that of an ocean liner and she can travel 6,000 miles without making a landing.

NILAND RAISES RUMPUS WITH CAR BILL

Would Limit Traffic in East Boston Tunnel; Is Ruled Out of Order

Storming up and down the floor of the House of Representatives and shouting so that he could be heard through the anterooms and corridors, Representative Thomas A. Niland of East Boston created a sensation today when he again attempted to introduce a bill limiting the number of Chelsea cars to be run through the East Boston Tunnel.

While Speaker Warner was reading the orders of the day, Niland jumped to his feet, and demanding recognition of the speaker. After that every time the Speaker paused Niland was on his feet shouting "Mr. Speaker I desire to be heard."

He repeated this a dozen or more times, his voice ringing out not only through the House but penetrating the outside corridors as well.

Then apparently much angered at the attitude of the Speaker, who ignored him, Niland strode up and down the aisle near his seat.

FRIENDS REBUFFED.

When friends tried to calm him and urged him to sit down, he replied with shouts of "I will not! I will not!"

Attendants of the House moved toward him, but none attempted to touch him.

Finally Representative Mellen of Charlestown asked the Speaker for an explanation as to why Niland's bill was not admitted.

Speaker Warner replied that he had received information that Niland intended to take the floor every day and offer the same order.

"He's out of order," said the Speaker, under the rules of the House which prohibit members from procrastinating and delaying public business."

SPEAKER APPLAUDED.

Vociferous applause on the part of the House greeted this statement by the Speaker. A recess was then declared, and Niland was calmed down.

Niland has attempted to offer the same order for three days running. It is an order to limit the number of Chelsea cars running through the East Boston tunnel, the residents of the latter district feeling that they will get better car service if this is done.

The first day Niland attempted to introduce the order it was to limit the Chelsea cars to five an hour. Yesterday it was to limit such cars to seven an hour. It is understood that the order he tried to introduce today would permit nine Chelsea cars an hour to go through the tunnel.

N. Y. Couple Wed In Hotel Here to Avoid Parents

Mrs. Lancata La Vay Hall, giving her address as Garrison Hall, this city, and Adolph J. Fareon, aged twenty-two, a student, of New York city, were married at Young's Hotel by Registry Clerk Joseph A. Cabalan, as justice of the peace.

The bridegroom admitted that parental displeasure might follow, but as the bride and groom were each aged twenty-two, Justice Cabalan found no reason why the ceremony should not be performed.

MRS. GENE REID AGAINST LIQUOR AS A BUSINESS

Mrs. Gene Reid, wife of the late proprietor of Woodbury's Cafe in Newspaper row, is very anxious to correct an erroneous impression which has become current since the publication of an interview with her in the American. She wishes it particularly understood that she is and has always been against the liquor business as a business. She is simply acting, she states, as the administratrix of her husband's estate and is carrying on the business in which he was engaged in order that the estate may be settled.

At the same time she has no sympathy with the liquor traffic. She believes that each individual's conduct is a matter for each individual to decide, however, even though sold is against the sale of liquor as a trade. She called attention to the fact that the greater percentage of the business of the cafe she now conducts is in food, the cafe's chief trade being a luncheon one.

WAREHAM MAN DEAD FROM OVERDOSE OF MEDICINE

Wareham, July 2—Domingos Dias, No. 1 Elm street, is dead at his home as the result of an overdose of medicine. Dias had complained of pains near his heart and went to see a physician. Some tablets were prescribed for him with the directions to take one every three hours. He followed directions carefully and felt some slight relief from the pain. Thinking there was a cure in the box, he swallowed about fifty at one time and died from their effects.

WOMAN BORN, WED AND TO BE BURIED JULY 4

Pittsfield, July 2. Mrs. Martha Washington Holmes, forty years, died here of injuries suffered in an auto accident.

She was born on July 4, married on July 4 and her funeral will be held on July 4.

Mrs. Holmes was a widow and left no children. She was the only one of seven passengers in a touring car ditched in Lanesboro Sunday who was injured.

WIFE WANTS DIVORCE AND HER FIVE CHILDREN

Mrs. Lawrence Karnikowski of Lowell has filed an action for divorce against her husband, Felix Karnikowicz, of parts unknown.

They were married in Lowell, November 12, 1904. She alleges cruel and abusive treatment, and also asks for the custody of five children.

R-34 CUTS WAY THROUGH FOG ON SEA TRIP

west. Speed 52 knots. Going through thick fog. All well."

At that hour the dirigible had traveled about 450 land miles since her departure from East Fortune mile meeting and was about 235 miles west of the north coast of Ireland.

MAY DELAY ARRIVAL.

Until she encountered the mist, the great dirigible had been heading westward at the speed of an ordinary railway train—about 42 miles an hour. It now appears likely that she may not reach Mineola, L. I., until Saturday morning.

Her every making flight apparently is being made in as prosaic a fashion as the voyage of any modern ocean liner. Her crew of twenty-three men, including Lieutenant-Commander Zaradovic of the United States Navy, are as comfortably housed in their gondolas as the officers of the big Cunarders, excepting that their freedom of movement is more restricted.

In their westerly flight from East Fortune this morning, the big airship engaged in a losing race with the sun. She was off before sunrise, but a few hours later the rays of the morning sun, without effect on flying field in light immediately after her departure, had caught up with the stern of the speeding liner and then passed beyond her, lighting her way.

FLIES SLOWLY AT START.

Leaving the East Fortune airdrome, near Edinburgh, at 7:45 o'clock this morning Great Britain time, the R-34 was passed Bathin Island, off the north coast of Ireland, at 5:20 o'clock.

Bathin Island is approximately 125 miles southwest of Edinburgh, and if the dirigible had traveled in a straight line from the starting point she had made a little more than nine miles an hour on this initial leg of the journey.

The following radiograph was received from Major Scott, commander of the balloon:

"Off Bathin Island at 5:30, British Summer time. Steering west and going well."

At 8 o'clock (Greenwich mean time) the R-34 had reached latitude 55 degrees and 20 minutes north and longitude 10 degrees and 40 minutes west, and was making forty knots an hour, between forty-two and forty-three miles an hour, said a wireless dispatch from the dirigible.

The balloon was averaging forty-five knots an hour while passing the north coast of Ireland.

The position of the R-34 at 8 o'clock was approximately 200 miles northwest of Malinmore Head, the southernmost point of the Donegal coast. The balloon was following the North Atlantic steamship lane for vessels.

REPRESENTS U. S. NAVY.

The United States Navy is represented on board the balloon in the person of Lieutenant-Commander Zaradovic, who is working as a member of the crew.

The giant dirigible was given an enthusiastic send-off when she rose from the East Fortune flying field and headed westward towards the sea.

The motors were working perfectly, and all on board were confident of a successful voyage. The airmen were hopeful that they would arrive in time to take part in the Fourth of July celebration in New York city on Friday night.

There are more than a score of men in the crew of the great balloon, and everything possible had been done to insure their comfort on the long trip through the sky.

Major Cooke, the navigator, planned to make most of the trip at a low altitude in order to make observations easier and to keep in direct touch with steamships passing beneath.

Weather conditions were excellent when the historic flight was started, and the indications were for fair weather off the coast. The R-34 had already proved her mettle by a 2,000 mile flight above the Baltic when she rode through a severe storm that caused keen inconvenience to ships upon the sea.

FIND ARSENAL IN HOME IN RAID IN DUBLIN

Dublin, July 2—The police in a raid on a private house here late yesterday found a veritable arsenal containing revolvers, cartridges, hand grenades and machine gun bullets. One arrest was made.

CAR HITS TRUCK, INJURING 9, AT WORCESTER

Electric Leaves Rails as It Crosses Switch, Then Breaks Iron Post

Worcester, July 2—Nine employes of the Worcester street department were injured today when a trolley car jumped the track and crashed into a truck, in which they were riding, driving it against the curb and overturning it.

Charles Thibault, motorman of the car, said that it left the rails in crossing a switch at Main and Foster streets. The truck as it turned up on the sidewalk, broke off an iron post four inches in diameter.

The injured, all of whom were able to go home after their bruises were treated by police surgeons, were Michael J. Wall, John Durkin, William J. Smith, John Feehan, Edward Sullivan, John F. Fitzgibbon, William Salerstay, John Pasquale and Walter Black.

PLATE GLASS WINDOW BROKEN BY AUTO

An automobile running out of control smashed a big plate glass window in the store of Penn the florist, at No. 124 Tremont street, and ran into Ernest B. Neal, fifty years old, of 182 Warren street, Wollaston.

Neal was taken to the Relief Hospital suffering from contusions and shock. According to the police the machine was being operated by its owner, Charles Foltz, No. 718 Tremont street.

DR. JOSEPH A. BLAKE TO BE RECIPIENT OF D. S. M.

Newport, R. I., July 2—Two additional medals will be received by members of the Summer colony for war work from General Barry, commanding the Department of the East. They are for distinguished service during the war overseas and the recipients will be Mrs. James C. Cushman and Dr. Joseph A. Blake, husband of the former Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay.

URGES PASTORS TO PLEAD FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Rev. William M. MacNair, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, Cambridge, calls upon ministers in their Summer preaching to advocate the League of Nations. He says: "Urge as pastors to speak at least once during the Summer for the league. What a body of speakers the ministers of the country are, as they scatter through the States during the Summer months. Let us have a great Summer campaign for the league."

TREMONT STREET TO BE ASPHALT IN SOUTH END

Merchants and residents of the South End will be pleased to know that Tremont street, from Dover to Northampton street, will soon be a smooth asphalt street. The work is to spend $152,000 on the street while the Boston Elevated will spend $94,000.

MATERNITY BILL PUT OVER A YEAR BY HOUSE

Despite an overwhelming vote in favor in the Senate, the maternity bill, supported by distinguished physicians and publicists and by the State Board of Health, was referred to the next Legislature by the House today in accepting the report of the Ways and Means Committee.

MILFORD TO PROSECUTE SELLERS OF LIQUOR

Milford, July 2—Milford selectmen Town Solicitor Judge John C. Lynch and Police Chief J. F. Murphy have discussed the war-time prohibition law, and they have decided upon a strict enforcement of its provisions. Chief Murphy was given specific instructions to prosecute after warning against selling liquor.

Death of Demon Rum Pleases Clergymen

Boston clergymen today expressed satisfaction at the coming of prohibition, pointing out the good that would come to the country through the absence of alcohol. Following are their views:

REV. CALL G. MAYO, Elliot Congregational Church:

I haven't the slightest doubt that if prohibition is fairly well enforced it will result in a tremendous benefit to all communities. No one engaged in moral or social welfare work has the slightest hesitancy in pronouncing the drink evil as one of the greatest curses of the race. I believe, however, that prohibition should be total. Beer and light wines are as bad as whiskey. I find that the old beer soak is one of the worst forms of drunkenness and I believe that the moral dullness of the German people, especially the Prussians, is due to the great amount of beer consumed by them.

Beer dulls the moral fibre and beer and light wines have started many a college man on the downward path.

The old argument of the "wets" that prohibition robs us of personal liberty is knocked on the head by the events of the past few years when everybody has sacrificed all sorts of personal liberty in the cause of the common good.

REV. GEORGE R. STAIR, pastor of Dudley Street Baptist Church:

I favor the benefits of prohibition on three points. They are:

1. Decrease in drunkenness.

2. The moral level will be raised.

3. Families will be bettered, children better dressed and homes better furnished. Wives better treated.

Young men will be saved from ruin because they will not have the ready access to alcohol and the temptation of the open saloon.

A Mayo hitherto spent for alcohol will purchase the essentials of life and many pleasures.

Business efficiency will be greatly enhanced.

The intellectual level of the community will be raised.

A great saving will be made in expenditures for jails, courts and almshouses.

The decadence of the nation will be checked from the fruit of legalized evil.

REV. A. Z. CONRAD, Park Street Church:

Since the orgies of Monday night, when Bostonians out-Hunned the Hun in their barbaric debauch, already we perceive civilization and wants progress, must recognize the value of prohibition. It has been a blessing contrary.

At any rate, prohibition is part of the constitutional law of the United States. The enforcement of prohibition must now claim the attention of all well thinking people. Officials who undertake to play fast and loose with constitutional law will soon find themselves swept to sea in an amazon of public sentiment.

It will be impossible to put this country back on the liquor basis. It will never be done.

TO RIDE BIKE FROM MACON TO NEW YORK TO WEDDING

Macon, Ga., July 2—Cyclops Abbott, a Macon boy, left yesterday on a cycle for New York city, where he is to wed a Red Cross nurse he met in France.

Abbott was recently discharged from the army. He expects to reach New York via Milledgeville, Sandersville, Waynesboro, Sylvania, Savannah and thence via the National highway through Washington.

TOTTERING CHIMNEY TORN DOWN IN ADAMS

Adams, July 2—Removal of a disused brick chimney 75 feet in height, which constituted a menace on Dean street, has been accomplished by the owner of the property.

The chimney was formerly connected with the tannery of the Renfrew Manufacturing Company, which building burned to the ground 15 years ago.

LEMUEL E. QUIGG DEAD, AGED 56 YEARS

Former Republican Leader of New York State Victim of Bright's Disease

By International News Service.

New York, July 2—Lemuel Ely Quigg, widely known Republican politician and attorney, died at his home, No. 491 West End avenue, last night of Bright's disease. It was learned today. He was in his fifty-seventh year.

Mr. Quigg was ill but a few weeks. He appeared only a short time ago in the Supreme Court as counsel for the big traction interests he represented.

He was born in Cecil County, Maryland, on Feb. 12, 1863. After obtaining a common school education he came to New York and engaged in newspaper work, studying law at the same time. He later became editor-in-chief of the New York Press. From journalism Mr. Quigg went into politics. He was elected to Congress on the Republican ticket and served from 1892 to 1895. In 1894 and again in 1902 he was temporary chairman of the New York state Republican convention, and in 1896, 1900 and 1904 he was a delegate to the Republican national conventions.

For many years Mr. Quigg was an influential and at the same time a picturesque figure in Republican national politics. With the advent into power of Colonel Roosevelt his influence declined, and in recent years he had devoted most of his time to the practice of law.

FIREMAN HURT IN $35,000 BLAZE IN NORTH END

Stubborn Fight With Flames in Grocery Store in the Produce District

Several buildings in the wholesale produce district were menaced this morning by a fire which resulted in two alarms and a loss of $35,000, destroying part of the stock and plant of the Arax Grocery Company, Inc., at No. 60 Fulton street.

The blaze was one of the smokiest which Boston's firemen have been called upon to fight in many months, and frequently during the progress of the hard battle it looked as though the blaze would spread to other structures.

A narrow alleyway in the rear of the burning four-story structure made it a very hard fire for the firefighters to reach, and they were obliged to fight it from the roofs of adjoining buildings to prevent it jumping across this narrow space.

Hoseman Frank McGuire of Engine 5, while working in the narrow rear alleyway, was struck by a brick falling from the top of the burning building. His right arm was severely cut, but after first aid treatment he was able to return to duty.

Patrolman O'Hara of the Hanover street police station discovered smoke issuing from the windows of the building and rang in an alarm from Box 1152. Chief Tabor on his arrival perceived that he had a fire of more than ordinary magnitude to deal with and ordered a second alarm sent in.

A stubborn fight while firemen were fighting the blaze from ladders raised on three sides of the building and from the adjoining roof on the fourth side, the flames broke through the roof, threatening a half dozen other buildings. At that period it looked as though a third and possibly other alarms would be necessary, but by massing their lines and by skilful use of the deck guns on the adjoining buildings, the firemen got the blaze under control without substituting aid.

AUTOIST NURSES $2,000 AS COLLISION DAMAGES

Edward H. Hancock of Medford has been sued for $2,000 by Kervin R. Higgins, a nurse.

Higgins alleges that on February 1 last, while driving his automobile on Mystic Valley Parkway, Somerville, it was damaged when the defendant's machine collided with it.

DALEY RIDICULES STATE EXPERTS IN FINAL ARGUMENT FOR NURSE

ASSERTS DOCTOR MIGHT HAVE POISONED MISS GAY

Mdme. the nurse now[illegible] Mrs. Linde, the relative; Miss Winslow, the cousin, and even the doctor, who by accident or mistake might have administered the poison.

SCOFFS AT EXPERTS.

"You have seen that splendid trinity of three, Dr. Magrath, Dr. Pease and Professor Whitney, who were ready to swear to anything but who were obliged to come to the rescue of the government in the last days.

Attorney Daley characterized Dr. William F. Pease as "the good man Friday who was willing to testify at anything, even as a gambler, if he was asked for it."

"They don't practice medicine, Mr. Foreman, they are too busy testifying; they haven't time for it. We want no men who never wrote a prescription in their lives pointing out to us and a patient in their lives.

"Men of experience know that when a husband and wife separate after the birth of a child there is only one reason for it and that is the manifestation of insanity that was present twenty years ago. And my brother has admitted that the only treatment required was expert medical preparation.

"Why didn't the government produce those two old family physicians, Dr. Enteritis of New Jersey, and dear old Cerebral Hemorrhage of Andover as experts, and the only reason.

"And here is a significant fact that you must not neglect and that is that Miss Gay told Mrs. Skeels that she had spent a lot money with one specialist and that she was now being treated by a doctor with a German name.

"ALL GERMAN" TREATMENT.

"Considering the fact that this treatment was invented by a German and perfected by a German and she was being treated by a doctor with a German name, who would you say? That she was being treated with an arsenic! preparation that was injected into her veins in early November and you have heard the experts say that arsenic would stay in a dead body for years.

"We admit the presence of arsenic in the body of Miss Gay, but we don't admit the amount that the experts testified to. Rather than that, I would admit the diagnosis of my old friend Dr. Abbott, that of cerebral hemorrhage.

"If Dr. Abbott admits that he recognized the symptoms in Miss Gay and he didn't prescribe an antidote, then we have the wrong defendant in that chair."

Mr. Daley characterized the worn carpets, the mirror, the pictures as "that bunch of junk that Edith Linde claimed had an historical value," and said, "and the Attorney-General wants you to take a woman's life for that."

"Do you suppose that this defendant looked upon that and said, in order to get possession of that I will kill my patient? You've got to admit that if you admit the motive.

"I suppose it is open to you to assume that she killed without motive. Then she is an arch fiend or of unsound mind. We will prove to you that she is of sound mind and has always been of sound mind. Yet the Attorney-General sent two alienists up there to examine her.

CHALLENGES AWHILE.

"I challenge you, the Attorney-General, to tell this jury why you sent those two eminent specialists up to examine her, unknown to counsel, and why you did not present that report in court.

"Mrs. Skeels neither by accident, intent or design gave two hundred her brother, Bert, nor did she poison Florence W. Gay. And so, Mr. Foreman, we are asking not for a verdict of manslaughter, but either a verdict of murder in the first degree or acquittal.

"Four days, Mr. Prosecutor, is to present all the evidence in this case, and not to try to befuddle this jury. We hold no brief for Frank Skeels, but the only reason the government, in stage that seems raising that latter word, is to add evidence fronting the defendant was to cause the defendant to faint and fall in her chair, and to prejudice the government was right in some guess, anyway."

Mr. Daley went on to say that Mrs. Dawnlfe admitted she had never seen "Bess Wilkins" from the time she left Paterson until she saw her in the courtroom, and never knew that Mrs. Skeels met Frank Skeels in the West, and that she lived with him, until Mrs. Skeels honestly admitted it and said she didn't marry Frank Skeels until he presented her with his certificate of divorce.

"This isn't a trial of a woman charged with murder," said Daley. "It's the old knock-out game of the Attorney-General and the District Attorney, with the defendant lost sight of, their game is to win, no matter what the cost."

RIDICULES "GAS" THEORY.

Mr. Daley said that when the State saw the result of their attempt to throw dust in the eyes of the jury by the testimony regarding the gas poisoning they called in "that agile acrobat Rose, who then qualified as a gas expert."

"They began with gas poisoning," said Daley, "and ended with a drink of brandy, and then, because they thought they hadn't enough, they threw in a talcum powder, and asked the defendant if she didn't eat talcum powder until Manahan took it away from her.

"Why didn't you bring in Dr. Manahan to tell that story to the jury, yourself, Mr. Attorney-General? Why didn't you call Dr. Freeman of the Lawrence General Hospital to refute the third degree method, if it wasn't because you knew he would tell something that would hurt the prosecution's case?

"We say a great many things between counsel, just as you do, Mr. Foreman, but this is the first time I have ever been unable to talk in confidence to my brother. The question that he asked Mrs. Skeels, 'Didn't you say you'd walk into court and dance a jig,' was a breach of that confidence, and the only reason he asked her that was because he knew there was no one could deny it."

Mr. Daley referred in scathing terms to the questions of the State, as to whether Mrs. Skeels ate baked beans or fried potatoes and asked, "Has he got his sleuths even in the bones at Andover? Has he got them in ohio, and in New Jersey, as well?

MRS. SKEELS' HEALTH.

"My brother could not present evidence of Mrs. Skeels' health, and because it was not in issue, neither could I. He has referred to it here, only to assume to you that the defendant was 'faking.' He even considered an operation was not necessary, but the defendant merely allowed the doctors to cut her open."

Attorney Daley referred to the visit of the government's sleuths to New Jersey, in search of another motive. "And they returned with one sheet," he said. "They have the sheet, but they do not bring Mrs. Linde, who went with the officers. Yet they would have you think the woman poisoned a woman for one sheet.

"The prosecutors not content with their motive went down to New Jersey and came back, ready to prove that Mrs. Skeels poisoned her own brother, her own flesh and blood. We can't try her for this crime in Massachusetts, they said, but we can so prejudice your mind that admit the gas poisoning and the other motives defendant capable of anything."

With biting sarcasm Mr. Daley ridiculed the New Jersey evidence, ascribing to the attorney-general the theory that Albert Wilkins in New Jersey was guilty of larceny as well as Mrs. Skeels herself, and that she feared that he might be brought to Massachusetts to testify against her.

"There is no law to compel a witness to come from one State into another to testify, if you want the evidence you take it by deposition," said Mr. Daley.

CHARGES "MUD-THROWING."

Dust-throwing and mud-throwing were terms Mr. Daley used to describe the attempt of the State to make the jury believe that she had murdered her brother.

"They don't expect you to believe it, but they want you to be ready to believe anything bad or everything bad about her," he said.

Mr. Daley reread the letter, previously introduced with the testimony of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Wilkins, to show the tenderness and the generosity of the woman who wanted to protect the children and to care for them.

"As the letter was read once more the calm of the defendant deserted her once more and, pressing her hands to her eyes, she wept as she has wherever the death of any of her family has been spoken of during the trial.

At the conclusion of the letter Mr. Daley asked the jury if that was the letter of a cold-blooded murderess.

"No argument that I might offer or any argument of the attorney-general can take the fact that she was a true sister and a loyal daughter, who had promised her mother on her death bed that she would care for her erring brother," Mr. Daley replied.

"There are some things you must consider in determining both of these questions. First—Did Florence W. Gay commit suicide, or did she take some preparation, either by accident or design herself. The last witness said that in July, Miss Gay said that she was taking cure and invalids. Is that important, Mr. Foreman?"

CRITICIZES WITNESSES.

Mr. Daley next paid his respects to the witnesses calling attention to the interest that they have expressed in the proceedings.

"Remember Miss Black," he said. "She was just the person to clean up the odds and ends of the case. She was one of those witnesses whose appearance would convince any person that her interest was against Mrs. Skeels—she is what is known among the gentler sex as one of the 'catty kind.'

Mrs. Claflin was characterized as the attorney as a "practical nurse."

"If a practical nurse, she was practically her own boss, she came when she pleased and she left when she pleased. And she said that all she gave Miss Gay was Essays food and mint tea, finally admitting that on all but one or two occasions it was made by Mrs. Skeels," he said.

Miss Winslow he characterized as the most fair and the most honest witness that the Commonwealth produced. "She gave her patient what she was told to give and she declined to follow the government's opening that the exclusive opportunity rested with Mrs Skeels," he declared.

The atmosphere of mystery was created by reference to spooks and burglars, the attorney said, but nothing was ever said by Mrs. Skeels about spooks or burglars ever looking for anything but some papers that they couldn't find. Mrs. Ripley, characterized as another honest witness, said that Miss Gay told her the same thing. "My breath wants to build up in your mind the suggestion that Mrs. Skeels told everybody in Andover that burglars were visiting the house, in order to cover up her own thefts, but Mrs. Skeels never told anyone that the burglars took anything," he said.

"If there were diamonds and furs and things of historical value in the Gay house would anyone take this stuff here, this bunch of broken china?" queried Mr. Daley.

Hurl Whiskey from Speeding Auto As Sheriffs Close in

Biddeford, Me., July 2—Deputy Sheriffs captured two high-powered touring cars with a cargo of about seventy-five gallons of liquor which the occupants were trying to smuggle into the State.

The sheriffs seized fifty gallons of whiskey in one car and caused the occupants of the other to throw away twenty-five gallons of whiskey and several smaller bottles before being overtaken.

James Gagnon of Lewiston was fired at several times by the officers before he came to a halt following a two-mile chase over the road entering this city. Fifty gallons were taken from his car.

Mrs. W. C. Rooney, also of Lewiston, was chased by the deputies and before her chauffeur driven car could be overtaken the liquor was thrown from the car as it sped along.

CHELSEA DECORATES ITS SERVICE MEN

Nearly 3,000 service men of Chelsea were formally decorated by the city, through Mayor Melvin H. Breath and members of the Welcome Home Committee, in Gardner's Theatre, Chelsea.

A small gold button bearing the city seal and above it the words "World War Veteran" was presented to each man by the mayor.

STATE MERGER BILL BEFORE SENATE

The consolidation bill creating twenty new departments and abolishing present State commissions, departments and offices, was passed to be engrossed in the House with minor amendments and under suspension of the rules was hurried to the Senate for action there today.

Representative Young of Weston tried to create State berths for women in view of the passage of the suffrage amendment, but the House voted down his amendment, 82 to 56.

Safeguards were thrown about the jobs of the employes in the sergeant-at-arms department and State House employes of five years standing, and amendments also provided against any reduction in salaries.

A reduction in salaries from those provided in the bill were, however, made in the Public Utilities Commission which is to succeed the Public Service Commission and the State Gas and Electric Light Commission. The salary of the head of the commission was cut from $9,000 to $8,000 and of the members of the commission from $8,000 to $7,000.

DIES FROM INJURIES WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Peter G. Prindas, twenty-seven, of Chandler street, South End, is dead at the Glover Hospital, Needham, from injuries received when an automobile which he was operating overturned on Vinecrest street, Dedham, pinning him and two passengers under the wreckage.

Prindas was demonstrating his car to Christo Kogas of No. 516 Spring street, West Roxbury, and Antonios Angelopoulos of No. 50 Chandler street, South End, when it went over.

The other occupants of the car received slight cuts and bruises.

Colonel Guthrie of the Kilties to Be a U. S. Citizen

Colonel Guthrie, leader of the famous McLean Kilties of Canada, has given up his Canadian citizenship for that of the United States. After long and distinguished service in France, the New Brunswick lawyer is now practicing his profession here in Boston at No. 25 State street in partnership with James D. Colt.

LIFE SAVERS RESCUE THREE LYNN YOUTHS

Three Lynn youths were rescued from a capsized sailboat one mile out to sea from Nahant by the lifesavers at the Nahant station. Thomas McLennon of No. 58 Williams street, Lynn, one of the trio, was picked up after he had swam some distance toward shore. The others, Lindon Cook of No. 74 Porter street, and Fred Phillips of Sheridan road, clung to the boat which turned over when the rope tried to pull her about. All were aged sixteen.

MEXICAN TROOPS STOP AMERICAN OIL DRILLS

Washington, July 2—Because the restrictions placed by the Mexican Government upon the drilling of oil wells have not been adhered to, troops have been sent to many of the fields operated by Americans to prevent further drilling, it is learned at the State Department.

It is understood that the State Department does not consider the action as confidentiary, but efforts are being made to prevail upon the Mexican Government to modify the existing restrictions.

Cost of Milk Will Not Be Increased in July

The threatened raise in the retail price of milk will not be made during the month of July at least, despite the advance in the wholesale price. This announcement is made by D. Whiting and Sons Company and by the Hood Company, who state that the additional cost of milk at wholesale will be assumed by the companies.

YEOMEN (F) ARE GIVEN MEDALS AT NAVY YARD

On account of their strict compliance with the regulations concerning the uniform, and for neatness, more than 100 yeomen (F) on duty at the Charlestown navy yard, were awarded distinguished service medals. They were paraded in front of the flagpole and the medals were attached to their uniforms by Mrs. William R. Rush, wife of Captain Rush, commandant of the navy yard, and Mrs. Walter T. Kemp, jr., wife of Paymaster Kemp.

Jersey Man May Be Grandfather to His Own Children

Jersey City, N. J., July 2—If a man marries his daughter-in-law and children are born of the union will he be grandfather to his own children and will wife be sister-in-law to them?

CARFARE RATES TO BE FIXED BY DISTRICTS

Eastern Street Railway Adopts "Home Rule" Plan for Each Community

A new system of fixing carfare rates in the territory of the Eastern Street Railway, which name for the line, has been put in operation.

The system provides that the rates in each community shall be fixed solely by the people who live in that community, and who will have to contribute to the support of the roads in their own cities.

Under the new plan the managers of each division of the road will be given the service demanded of the people. He is to be the manager absolutely independent of the main office of the company and unhampered by any restrictions as to the number of cars to be operated or the rates of fare to be charged.

The division managers will have charge of the following districts, which will be known as the Lynn, Salem, Gloucester, Lawrence, Haverhill, Hyde Park, Quincy, Brockton, Taunton and Fall River.

ARLINGTON FIREMEN IN SUMMER UNIFORMS

The members of the Arlington fire department are now garbed in their wartime summer uniforms, which no doubt they will adopt as the regulation Summer outfit. This uniform of khaki coat and trousers and khaki-colored cap with white top was first worn on the last Summer when the high price of cloth made it prohibitive to purchase Summer uniforms.

Canoe Spooners at Lynn Protest Glare of Patrol Light

Evening canoeists at Sluice Pond lately are waging a vigorous campaign to force the Lynn & Boston Railroad to dim their headlights, claiming that the brilliancy of the lights from the cars of that road renders it impossible for a romance and that sort of thing to flourish.

Something that seems brilliant enough to disappear as it tends to discourage spooning and other boating activities, the protestants say, was granted the request to Mayor Meehan, who has granted the road a period of six months in which to make the improvement. Meanwhile, beneath the relief which will be given the pond since the increased motor boating of recent years has damped much enthusiastic searching qualities the shadiest place is secure from prying eyes.

FRANK J. GOULD TO RETURN FOR HIS LEGACY

New York, July 2.—Frank J. Gould, it was learned today, will soon forsake the boulevards and the courses of France and return to America. The youngest son of the late Jay Gould has written friends he expects to arrive here before Fall. His representatives in this country believe he is anticipating early court decisions that will let him control his share of the $50,000,000 estate of his father, one of them was saved.

"Has Mr. Gould's stay in Paris anything to do with his recently won divorce and the threat of his former wife to bring an equity suit against him in this country?"

"No," replied Mr. Gould's business associate, adding:

"I know that no eventuality along those lines is disturbing him in the least. As a matter of fact, I believe Mr. Gould realizes that business interests need his personal attention—more so than ever, in view of Justice Whitaker's removal of George Gould as trustee of the Gould estate. Frank J. Gould is a keen business man and I do not believe he again will allow his interests to suffer through trust of another."

It was hinted that Frank J. Gould will occupy the offices at No. 149 Broadway, which he has maintained since his "exile" from America and become a man of business.

Should Mrs. Frank J. Gould No. 2 carry out her threat to sue him in America there may be many interesting court sessions. She said a month ago the both she and her young Mexican admirer, Mario Cas-sans, would come to New York. She also said she would engage John B. Stanchfield to sue him.

Mr. Stanchfield is attorney for George J. Gould. He announced that appeal immediately will be taken from Justice Whitaker's decision ousting George J. Gould as trustee. He added:

"It is our contention that Justice Whitaker had no right to entertain the removal motion, and therefore the decision is not legal.

"We will take our appeal to the Appellate Division as soon as we can prepare the papers."

Walter H. Walker of Leonard & Walker, attorneys for Frank J. Gould retorted thus to Mr. Stanchfield:

"The decision of Justice Whitaker is very sanitary. It is in entire accord with the undoubted and settled law of this State and will stand."

TWO HURT WHEN AUTO CAPSIZES

Milford, July 2.—Miss Rhoda Keith, 24 years old, of North Easton and Arthur Briggs, 26 years old, of the same town, were badly injured when the car of an automobile in which they were riding was cut in South Milford and the machine swerved and turned on its side.

Miss Keith received a broken nose, a gash above the right eye and severe bruises. Briggs' right arm and leg were bruised and it is feared he may be injured internally. Both were taken to the Milford Hospital for treatment and later to the home of Miss Keith's aunt, Mrs. Leroy Black, when they had been visiting.

LIFE IN PRISON FOR MRS. GILLIGAN

Middletown, Conn., July 2.—Mrs. Amy E. Aichen Gilligan goes to State prison for life for the murder of Franklin R. Andrews of Cheshire at her home for aged people in Windsor.

EXPECT FIGHT IN HOUSE TO SAVE MOTHER'S BILL

Maternity Measure Is Recommended for Consideration by Next Legislature

A fight is expected in the House to save from defeat the maternity bill which was rushed through the Senate following appeals by State health authorities and Watch was reported in the House by the Ways and Means Committee with the recommendation that it be referred to the next Legislature.

The bill was sponsored by Edna Lawrence Spencer of Cambridge, who has for years been interested in the work of child welfare and was warmly praised by State Health Commissioner Dr. Eugene R. Kelly. It was owing to his indorsement, as well as to the general sentiment in favor of such a bill, that it so speedily passed the Senate.

Dr. Kelly declared that most of the 3,000 babies lost to the State every year by neglect of proper care for mothers during the period of childbirth, could be saved. The bill provides both medical and financial aid for expectant mothers.

Big Georgia Fig Crop

Thomasville, Ga., July 2.—The fig crop of South Georgia will be a fine one this year. Trees are loaded with fruit which will begin to ripen within the next three or four weeks. The crop, however, is rather late because of the cool Spring.

When the world caught fire

It is over now—the long roll of heroism is complete. We go back to Peace. And yet there is much to know, much to think, before we finally close the chapter of War. Lieut. Coningsby Dawson will reveal to you the intimate lessons learned by your own loved ones who fought and won. Read Locke also—the world's best-loved novelist—at his best in a great novel of war and peace, The House of Baltazar, which you will find in Good Housekeeping this month.

There is heart in this story

The greatest of human qualities! Suppose you had betrayed a secret of your husband's. Suppose you were afraid of his future, and of your own. Kathleen Norris brings all her knowledge of human nature and the human heart to bear on the unravelling of this situation. A great short story—the kind that Good Housekeeping readers receive in every issue.

That difficult first dinner

Many a social reputation has been wrecked on that reef. Suppose you have taken a summer cottage, and have been invited out, and are now giving a dinner of your own. Let Good Housekeeping insure you against mistakes. Your party will succeed. Everyone will enjoy it. Good Housekeeping is both your chef and your social secretary. Read its recipes, its suggestions for service and entertainments, and (this is a whisper) you cannot read so far without gaining a hundred new subjects for conversation.

Wanted—a pair of sneakers

Don't you? Is it not the truth that everyone needs them—when she is far from the shops? But Good Housekeeping Shopping Service will do the purchasing—and not sneakers alone, but everything else: blouses, skirts, ribbons, children's things, gifts, anything you need. The July issue tells how. Speaking of fashions, run through the fashion pages in this great number. Let Good Housekeeping suggest how you can dress more attractively and save money at the same time; with its fashions at your right hand, your clothes will be smarter, more becoming, and yet less expensive. Today, surely, before it is too late, secure from your newsdealer a whole month's pleasure and profit. Buy

KILLED IN FIGHT TO SAVE WIFE FROM BANDITS

Washington, July 2.—The State Department today made known three new charges against Mexico. They are: The murder of an American citizen; robbery of a paymaster of the Gulf Refining Company of $15,000; a raid on the property of the National Oil Company.

The situation between the United States, Great Britain and Holland, with respect to Carranza's oppressive measures against the oil interests of those countries in Mexico, has reached the point, it was intimated in official circles, where it requires immediate action by President Wilson upon his return to the capital.

On June 17 the State Department had a complete account of the murder of the American citizen and the attack on his wife, but nothing was given out on the matter. The announcement developed only after questions pertaining to the murder and attack were asked. It was further given out concerning the two other occurrences involving Americans.

The department gave out a statement regarding the murder and attack. It reads:

"The Department of State has received a dispatch from Tampico reporting that John W. Correll, whose home is near Colonia, twenty-seven miles north of Tampico, was murdered June 16, while defending an attack upon his wife by members of a rebel force operating in that vicinity. The dispatch says that after the murder of Correll, Mrs. Correll was maltreated and left in a very serious condition.

"The rebel forces of whom the assailants of Mr. and Mrs. Correll were part consisted of about fifty-six men, who raided Altimira on June 18.

"Both the American embassy at Mexico City and the American consulate at Tampico made urgent and immediate representations to the Mexican authorities to capture and punish the perpetrators of this outrage and to take adequate measures to protect American citizens in this district."

The robbery of the paymaster of the Gulf Refining Co. by Mexican bandits took place June 22 on the canal south of Tampico.

The raid on the National Oil Company was June 23, by Mexicans in the uniforms of Carranzista soldiers.

ARREST WOMAN WHO FOUGHT HUSBAND

Following a wild battle between Mrs. Domita Sobinsky, of Hayden street, Somerville, and her husband Peter, in which chairs, crockery and other things were thrown, the Somerville police today arrested the woman, charging her with assault and battery on her husband, and removed her three small children to the State Board of Charities. Complaint against Mrs. Sobinsky was made by an agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. This agent, with the police and the husband, went to her home. When her husband entered, she attacked him.

The three little ones, Sophia, aged three years, Anna, eighteen months, and Peter, aged six months, were found practically naked, and were wrapped in towels while being taken to court. The condition of the home was said to be appalling.

Three-year-old Sophia told Judge Wentworth that Saturday and Sunday her mother had beaten her with a broom. The child's body was found to be covered with bruises.

CLARENCE R. VAN ALLEN of Roxbury, on whom the French government bestowed its highest favor for an enlisted man. He performed heroic deeds in France.

For the first time in American history a French "Medaille Militaire," the highest honor for an enlisted man, was awarded today to Corporal Clarence R. Van Allen of No. 799 Tremont street, Roxbury, who was connected overseas with the 26th Division in Company I, of the 372d Infantry, composed partly of the old Massachusetts Sixth.

Major-General C. R. Edwards pinned this military honor upon Corporal Van Allen in his office at army headquarters in the presence of all his staff officers.

The ceremony did not take place on Boston Common because the Provisional have been demobilized and there are no companies of soldiers available. After pinning the honor upon Van Allen, General Edwards said:

"It is a great pleasure to me to give this unusual testimony of gallantry in the midst of service. It is the greatest honor, coveted by every French soldier.

"It is an additional honor to pin such an honor upon an American soldier. I congratulate you."

General Edwards then greeted Mrs. Margaret Van Allen, the wife, and Beatrice, his daughter, and spoke to them of the honor which had been given to this French government. Estella Askew and Clarence R. White, relatives of the soldier, were also present.

Van Allen already wears the distinguished Service Cross and Croix de Guerre, awarded him for operating a machine gun at Bussy Farm September 28, 1918, besides taking three prisoners and aiding four others. Later on the same day he captured single-handed a trench mortar, for which this military honor was rendered.

TWO DAYS' CELEBRATION FOR SOLDIERS IN HUDSON

Hudson, July 2.—Hudson is to have the biggest time in its history tomorrow and Saturday, when it will give a reception to its 250 returned service men. The program includes a huge bonfire on Mt. Bellevue at midnight Thursday, on Friday there will be a street parade, flag raising, ball game, street music, athletic meet, airplane stunts and dancing in the town hall. Willard-Dempsey bout and Chautauqua. On Saturday Colonel Logan and Chaplain Rollins of the 104th, in which Hudson's military company, and Capt. Dwight Sherman Rogers and State Treasurer Burrill will deliver addresses. There is to be a military, civic and trades parade, with eight bands in line.

DEMOBILIZATION MAY END "DRY" ACT AUG. 1

Washington, July 2.—Demobilization will be completed by August 1, in the opinion of army officials.

The final decision in the matter, they say, will rest with the general staff of the army, and not with the Department of Justice. When it has been made, General Sharpe, chief of staff, will so advise Attorney-General Palmer, who will in turn formally notify the President, leaving nothing in the way of the suspension of the war prohibition act.

LIEUTENANT WARREN TO WED NEW ORLEANS GIRL

Newport, R. I., July 2.—The marriage of Lieutenant George Henry Warren of Newport college today to Miss Katherine Urquhart will take place here Saturday afternoon, July 12, at Trinity Church. Miss Urquhart is the daughter of Mr. Davis Urquhart of New Orleans. Lieutenant Warren's sister is the Countess Guy de Lesseps (Constance Warren) of Paris. She will not be able to be at the wedding. Lieutenant Warren graduated from Harvard in 1910.

New York, July 2.—Charged with the theft of $1,000,000 worth of flour and other cereals from the Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling Company within the past five years, twenty truck drivers employed by the concern were arrested.

Lawson Grandfather of Bouncing Twins at Dreamwold

Egypt, July 2.—Thomas W. Lawson is again a grandfather and this time Henry McCall, son of former Governor McCall, and the financier's daughter, Dorothy, are the proud parents of twins who arrived at Dreamwold. The McCalls have made their home on a ranch in central Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. McCall have three other children — Henry McCall, Thomas Lawson McCall and Dorothy Lawson McCall. The last two to arrive are Samuel Walker McCall, 2d, named for his grandfather, the war Governor, and Jean Lawson McCall. All have been born at Dreamwold.

Both children and Mrs. McCall are getting on finely, according to the report given out by the proud financier grandfather. The little boy weighs 7¾ pounds and the little girl 8¼ pounds. Both grandfathers are imminently tickled over the event.

DIVORCES FOR 6 ARE ASKED IN CAMBRIDGE

Charging her husband, Joseph William, of Somerville, with cruel and abusive treatment, non-support and desertion, Mrs. Edith A. Williamson of Wakefield has filed a suit for divorce against him in the Middlesex County Court, East Cambridge. They were married in Boston November 21, 1917, and have since lived in Brookline and Wakefield. She asks for the custody of a minor child and has attached his property for $5,000.

Cuthbert Aubuchon of Lowell seeks a divorce from Mrs. Angelina Aubuchon, one of Paris unknown. They were married in St. Barthelmi, P. Q., Canada, February 12, 1889. He alleges that she deserted him in December, 1913.

Mrs. Stella A. Schuster of Somerville seeks a divorce from John H. Schuster, now of Cape May, N. J. They were married in Kittery, Me., June 4, 1910, and have since lived in Cambridge and Somerville. She alleges unfaithfulness.

Elevator Joke Lands Woman Operator In Hospital

Annie Carter, twenty-eight, of No. 254 Warren avenue, South End, employed as elevator operator at 134 Devonshire street, the Curry building, sustained a fractured pelvis, contusions and abrasions of the cheeks and legs and loosened all her teeth when she fell to the bottom of the elevator well at the close of employment.

Miss Carter left her car at the first floor and went away for a moment. When she returned she stepped through the door without noticing that the elevator had been taken up to a floor above.

In her absence, according to the police, the machine had been removed by another operator as a joke. Miss Carter's name is on the danger list at the Haymarket Relief Hospital.

NEW CHARGES OF BRITISH SAVAGERY IN IRELAND

By WILLIAM J. BUTLER,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent. Special Cable Dispatch.

Paris, July 2—Fresh atrocities said to be in practice now are charged against the English "arms of suppression" in Ireland by Frank P. Walsh and ex-Governor Edward P. Dunne of Illinois in a new letter filed with Premier Clemenceau, who, as president of the peace conference, is now in sole charge of the entire Irish question.

An official resultant on the visit and errand of the prior delegation of the tattered right of Hibernia to enter into explanations and statements affecting "foreign" and "domestic" charges. The De Valera government practically informs the world that Ireland is prepared to make answer on her behalf by the personal delegation of the other fresh charges says:

"Since the filing of the original report with President Wilson and the American commission, the regular lawless methods perpetrated by the English army of occupation on the Irish people which we submitted in violation of the rules of civilized warfare, and which, if permitted to continue, will render impossible the just publication of the world for which its people are so earnestly striving, have been augmented in every detail.

"Lives are being taken; men and women are being maimed and wounded daily.

"An organized effort to destroy the homes of the people of Ireland is being waged.

"Orders of banishment are being issued frequently against people commanding them to leave their homes at the risk of death and under the penalty of imprisonment.

"Raids are being made against peaceful towns and villages by airplanes.

"Homes and places of business of inhabitants are being invaded and ransacked, looting being carried on in a most shameful manner.

"Property of great value is being confiscated, for which reparation will be impossible unless an opportunity is quickly given to prove and inventory the losses.

"Barricades and emplacements for artillery and machine guns are being erected which menace the lives and property of the people.

"The meeting places of the people of Ireland are surrounded by machine guns so the workers are in imminent peril of death while endeavoring to carry on the lawful and ordinary activities of their organizations.

"Reprisals of cruel and unusual character are being practiced in retaliation for efforts to present the case of Ireland to the peace Congress.

"Delicate and aged men and women are being confined in noisome and unsanitary jails solely on account of their political opinions."

U. S. Cash to Revive Old Industries in Ireland

Dublin, July 2.—A number of wealthy Irish-Americans propose to revive the languishing Irish industries. An Irish manager is to be appointed to have supervision of this proposed reconstruction, the capital now being raised in the United States. American experts are already arriving in Ireland investigating conditions and instructing laborers.

IRISH LEADER SCORES PLAN OF PLUNKETT

Dominion Home Rule Makes Erin Liable for England's Wars, Says Arthur Griffith

By DANIEL O'CONNELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Dublin, July 2—Arthur Griffith, Sinn Fein member of Parliament and one of the founders of the Sinn Fein organization, strongly criticized Sir Horace Plunkett's scheme for dominion home rule in Ireland, in an interview today. He is known for the fact that Mr. Griffith is one of the chief directors of Sinn Fein policy, the views may be accepted as the official attitude of the Sinn Fein organization toward Sir Horace Plunkett's proposal.

"Dominion home rule is to use an aspirational expression, equal to nothing in Ireland," said Mr. Griffith. "Dominion home rule as devised by Sir Horace Plunkett is explained in a circular which seeks support on the pretense that Ireland will control her military and naval forces and foreign policy and will have power to enter into relations with other countries or appoint representatives abroad to guard Irish interests.

MAKES IRELAND LIABLE.

"It makes Ireland liable for England's wars and forces Ireland to continue to pay for the upkeep of England's army and navy and diplomatic and consular services. This is not dominion home rule. It is Irish repression.

"Sir Horace Plunkett was used as a cat's paw by English statecraft against Ireland in 1917-1918 and he has used again by the same people for the same purpose.

"In 1917 he was used to throw dust in the eyes of the Americans by presiding at a bogus convention which, it was pretended, represented the Irish people.

"In 1918 he was used to break up that convention when it was believed the time had come to pretend successfully to America that the Irish had been offered liberty should they choose to agree upon it.

HAS NO POLITICAL WEIGHT.

"Again, in 1919, he was used to pretend to America that Ireland was to have her own constitution and that England was willing to agree to a measure of self-government equal to that of Canada, Australia or South Africa.

"Sir Horace Plunkett has no political weight in Ireland. His supposed success in the Ireland-at-peace from the belief held by a section of the British Foreign Secretary and some of the colleagues that Sir Horace has a grip on large sections of American public opinion and can manoeuvre that public in England's interests.

"It is not the interest of Ireland, but England's interest, with America, that brings Sir Horace to this act of professing to offer dominion home rule. Ireland has no offering a good price.

British Jailers Torture Prisoners, Priests Declare

British rule in Ireland was denounced bitterly, stories of English cruelties to Sinn Fein prisoners as well as the general state of affairs formed and alarming conditions in the newly proclaimed republic described vividly in seven Irish-American missionary priests who left Memphis for Australia, by way of San Francisco. Since reaching here they have been entertained by Irish societies at the rectory of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help in Roxbury.

The personnel of the party is: Very Rev. Michael Cavanagh, C. SS. R., Limerick; Rev. Patrick Fine, superior, Dundee; Michael Hanrahan, C. SS. R., Vincent C. McMahon, C. SS. R., Limerick; Joseph C. SS. R., Frank Duffy, C. SS. R., John O'Brien, C. SS. R., and Matthew Joyce, C. SS. R.

"All Ireland is united as never before in the Sinn Fein movement," said Very Rev. C'Brien, "and everybody is with the Irish Republic and President De Valera. Sure you must have in Boston proved that you know the sentiment in Ireland. I understand that every man in Boston is a Sinn Feiner.

"Sir Horace Plunkett is not a representative of Ireland at all. He is another Irishman who speaks as England says and glories in so doing. He does not represent Ireland at all and he is in Ireland just to try to put forward the British side and England's movement and freedom. He is an Englishman at heart and in his speech.

"The horrible stories that the Irish envoys describe are true. Those terrible tortures of the jails and cells, with nerves atom and hands tied behind their backs for days on end till they could not lie down are only part of the cruelty.

"The people are in a panic all the time, for the police and soldiers are always raiding the houses. They kidnaped little boys and took them up to Dublin to make them testify against their own people and the Sinn Fein men and movement. Young women selling the Irish tri-color, the green, white and gold of the new republic of Ireland, were arrests and imprisoned.

"The dominion idea does not appeal to Irishmen. It's the 'red herring' again. We didn't they offer us a dominion form of government before this? No, we'll have none of it. If ernment is hostile to Ireland. It will do anything to discredit Ireland.

"The so-called Irish convention of Sir Horace Plunkett was a fiasco, a delusion and a snare. It was not representative as Sir Horace would have you believe. Sir Horace does not know Ireland. Why, one of the bishops who took part in that convention told me that he was sorry he ever sat in the convention. It was not Irish at all and not of or for Ireland."

Westboro, July 2—Captain H. M. Jordan, who has been in the United States service, has resigned his position at the Westboro State Hospital, where he was assistant to the former superintendent, Dr. H. O. Spaulding. Captain Jordan has been on the hospital medical staff about ten years and was assistant superintendent about five years.

MOTOR NEWS and NOTES

C. F. DONNOCKER, Automobile Editor

HOLES IN BEACON STREET WRECK AUTOS

Here is a piece of roadway that is used by thousands of motorists each day. It is the last end of Beacon street just before entering the Reservoir Parkway. It is a disgrace to the city. The road has been in this condition for some time and the motorists are loud in their demands for some action in the matter. This piece of road is dangerous for springs and axles and mars the beautiful road which is entered upon soon after passing this spot. This picture was taken on a rainy day and the pools of water show the depth of the holes.

ASK MR. FIXIT

Mr. Fixit will answer queries concerning auto troubles through this column every Wednesday. All answers will be through this column. Please do not send stamps for reply.

Reader, Maine, writes that he has a small hupmobile of either 1909 or 1911 model. He has had it overhauled on piston rings, valves repaired and the car thoroughly repaired, but still it will not climb an ordinary hill on either low gear. The motor will not speed either and reverse. The engine simply stalls when it gets to any grade whatever. He says that he has had his magneto fixed and new carburetor.

Your trouble is undoubtedly in the timing of the magneto. Try changing that you have had it timed. Also see if you have a soft spark and the magneto at this period is timed somewhat differently than you might suppose. Be sure that you have the proper clearance according to the markings on the flywheel. Have your exhaust valve ground and see to it that you take some about two inches past dead center on the forward stroke, or about five degrees. Set your magneto so that the armatures will pass the foot a scant three-eighths of an inch and have your distributor block on either one-half or two of the spokes. In this way the connections are taken without bothering about the locker joint. You further may have to make some adjustment to the valves to make things run smoothly. Be sure that you have the proper size and right gap between the points. Have your engine timed and would like to know what the points is second register when getting sufficient oil. Also, how can I get gasoline to my engine should a faulty joint be certain for safety front and rear. A. F. CAMPAN, Vermont.

This indicator is governed by the speed of the motor. With the motor running idle it should show about figure one. At fifteen miles an hour about two, and at forty miles an hour it should be away over as far as it can go or at 4. If this does not show there may be trouble with the check valve which governs the amount of pressure controlling the oil supply.

We recommend 55-60 pounds front and 60-65 pounds rear for this size tire. Some tires are thinner, however, will suggest using more air than this.

Your spark plug. Sometimes when driving I get a burning smell which does not come from a carbon spark plug. Please tell me if my valves need grinding. H. L. Watertown.

You might naturally think that your valves needed attention, but the trouble may come from a small piece of carbon or dirt which has adhered to the valve head surface and prevents the valve from seating properly, or a variation in the valve stem adjustment may prevent the valve from seating properly and cause this hissing sound. The remedy for either is quite simple.

Mr. Fixit: Please tell me what causes me to lose water from my radiator.

Water has made its way near the piston rings into the crankcase. Water is a product of combustion and this sometimes happens. In warm weather, water in the form of steam, sometimes blows out through the breather. This steam condenses in cold weather and drops down into the crank-case, interfering with lubrication. The remedy is to drain the oil about every two weeks and refill it.

Mr. Fixit: Why does my battery need more water in the summer than in the cold weather, and hence the cells should be inspected frequently. The cells should be brought to level once each week during the warmer months.

Mr. Fixit: Please tell me how I can adjust my clutch. I do not have to clutch pedal as much as I do out in the street.

Your adjustment may be radically wrong or else you have not a carburetor suited to your car. Do Warn your tuner up thoroughly before making an adjustment and see if that will not give you better results.

APPEALS JAIL SENTENCE FOR LARCENY OF AUTO

Augustus F. White of Bartlett street, Roxbury, was sentenced to the house of correction for one year and one day by Judge Hayden in the Roxbury Court today for the larceny of an automobile. The machine, which was valued at $1,600, belonged to Pauline Reed of No. 1239 Harrison avenue, Roxbury, and was recovered in a Squantum garage with five other machines believed to have been stolen in Boston. White appealed and was held in $2,000 for the Superior Court.

NEW BLUE BOOKS ROUTE 500,000 MILES OF ROAD

Headnotes and Maps of Vital Importance to the Tourist

The 1919 Automobile Blue Books have been out for some time. The regiment of scouts who spend eleven months of the year in their care to gather vast amounts of data and routings for the four-bible report that America's highway system, as charted in the new volumes, is almost at the half million mile mark.

Each year the figure mounts good roads become better boulevards, bad roads become good roads and concrete winds its way across sections that never knew a road. Covering 20,000 miles more than in any previous year, the Blue Books scouts state that the 114 miles of American highway that is to be recharted because of road development.

The maps, and there are thousands of them, are completely redrafted and the headnotes which describe each route from the standpoint of road conditions, climate and scenery, place at the disposal of the motorist much information about the trip that is vitally important.

ELSIE JANIS ADOPTS ITALIAN WAR ORPHAN

New York, July 2—Since her adoption by the United states army, Elsie Janis has developed a sort of mania for adoption. She has signed papers making her the foster mother of 14-year-old Michael Cardi, an Italian orphan veteran of the war, who landed here as a stowaway and who speaks five languages and wears the French and Italian war crosses. He claims they were awarded him for bravery in battle. His claim is being investigated.

Miss Janis wanted to adopt "Monsingor" Dillingham, the Irish-Belgian boy stowaway who has tried three times to get into the United states, but her motor car transport Santa Teresa has a prior claim on him.

NEW BEDFORD TO NAME SQUARE FOR AVIATOR

New Bedford, July 2—Many features have been arranged by Major John A. Stitt for the Fourth of July celebration in New Bedford this year. In the morning there will be the dedication of the public square named in honor of Lieutenant Frank Bayliss. At noon a banquet will be served to 2,000 invited soldiers, sailors and marines. The general committee is led by Major John A. Stitt.

MAINE AUTO TRIP OFFERS IDEAL VACATION

First Section of Tour Takes Autoist to Picturesque Moosehead Lake

This is the first instalment of the American's two weeks' vacation trip. Save the maps and route. The whole trip will be published in three sections.

The American publishes today the first section of a two weeks' automobile tour. This will be published in three sections and will take the readers through picturesque Maine up to the Moosehead Lake region, back through the mountainous country to the Lake George country and home by way of the Berkshires. It will be an easy vacation trip and one which will take the reader through very interesting country.

The route today goes as far as Moosehead Lake, which makes a nice three day trip. The first day should easily take one to Portland, Maine. The second to Bangor and the third to Moosehead Lake where the tourist may either stop or double back on the route of one of the smaller towns.

TELEGRAPHERS WILL NOW HANDLE ALL MESSAGES

St. Louis, July 2.—E. J. Manion, president of the order of Railway Telegraphers, has issued instructions to members of the order to resume handling Western Union and Postal messages.

In a statement accompanying the order, Manion declared the purpose of the original order to discontinue handling these messages, namely, to give encouragement and support to the striking commercial operators, has been accomplished.

FAHEY RESIGNS FROM PARK POLICE FORCE

John H. Fahey has resigned from the Metropolitan Police force to accept a more important government position. He was stationed at Nantasket and lives at No. 122 Water street, Watertown. Fahey was the first member of the Metropolitan Police force to enlist. He was a private in the 101st Infantry and made a fine record, serving eighteen months in France.

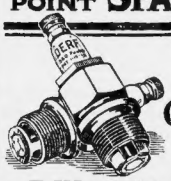
DERF
360 POINT SPARK PLUGS



A Challenge!

DERF Spark Plugs will save from 15 to 35% gasoline; they will fire under oil or water; they will give more power to an engine at less cost—and last twice as long as the average spark plug—They do not easily carbonize or foul.

These statements have been proved by test. We know of no other spark plug made that can claim such a wonderful record!

This is an open challenge to the motorists of America. Get the Derf dealer to tell you how to use Derf Spark Plugs. We guarantee you a saving in gasoline—more power—less trouble and greater satisfaction.

Will you try it? Isn't it worth your while to at least test a plug that will save its cost many times over?

Ask your dealer today for a set. Cut down your gasoline mixture as he will tell you. Then fire away and see what life and pep this superplug can give your car. $6.20 for four, $9.30 for six.

Derf Plugs won the N. Y. Herald-Government Fuel Economy Test; the Packard Motors Efficiency Test; the Overland Dependability Run (By Towers Motor Co.), and Official Fuel Economy Trials by both Automobile Club of America and Motor Truck Club of America.

50,000 BOSTON CHILDREN TO CELEBRATE

It is expected that fully fifty thousand persons will take part in or witness the children's games and patriotic events scheduled on the Fourth of July on the city playgrounds.

This particular task Boston's holiday observance has been arranged by the Independence Day committee, working in cooperation with the city authorities. Everything has been arranged and the exercises will begin the morning of the Fourth, with the dedication of three squares in memory of three Roxbury boys, who made the supreme sacrifice. Athletic events will follow at the Marcella street playgrounds, while at the Mount Hill playgrounds there will be a baseball game.

City councillor James A. Watson, chairman of the Roxbury Day celebration committee, announces that the tag day last Saturday proved a success and that nearly $1,000 was placed in subscription boxes by residents of the district and the wives of the members of the committee and their assistants, who made the tag day a success were commended for its success.

PARADE FORMATION.

The executive committee and all sub-committees met at the Roxbury courthouse last night and the roster of the parade was announced by Major James H. McDade of the 26th Division as follows:

FILM STAR'S DRESSING ROOM BUILT IN 24 HOURS

Miss Marion Davies has one of the most beautiful boudoirs in America at the Biograph Studio, New York.

One of the most beautiful dressing rooms in America and one of the most perfectly appointed dressing rooms that any film actress has ever occupied, has been completed at the Biograph Studio, New York, after twenty-four hours of uninterrupted work by Morris Greenblatt and Ben Berk. It will be occupied exclusively by Marion Davies and when she arrived at her studio to finish the last shots of her latest starring feature, "April Folly," with Director Robert Leonard, she was ushered into this dressing room de luxe by the entire staff of enthusiastic studio workers.

To be accurate, this dressing room is not a dressing room but a "suite"—a wide spreading one, very much on the order of a studio apartment. It consists of an outside foyer, or hall-en outer, reception room, a boudoir and reception room, a large room for gowns, hats, shoes, corsets and makeup accessories of every description.

Pink is the color note of the whole—a warm, vivid pink especially contrived for this star. The electric fixtures were all made especially for Miss Davies' use. They must pass and white glass shades, and the shades begin with a natural effect pinkish at the top, pink at the base.

The furniture of the rooms is in ivory shades and consists of dressing table, writing desk, chairs, lounges, roomy sewing table, studio full-length mirror, Miss Davies' wardrobe for frocks, shoes, hats and wraps, the entire reception room, settees, chairs, lounges, couches in harmonizing shades.

HOWARD YIELDS OFFICE AFTER BITTER ROW

Concord, N. H., July 2.—Not until Governor Bartlett appeared in person as the commander-in-chief of the State's forces would Adjutant-General Howard give up his office as the adjutant general. It was not until 3 o'clock this afternoon that Abbott of Manchester, is now holding down this much fought office as a result of a battle of words between the Governor and Howard.

When ordered to vacate to make way for Abbott, Howard declined, and only when the Governor appeared himself and ordered him to give Abbott full access to all the records and instruct him in the duties of the office did he yield.

During the day when callers at the office inquired for the adjutant, they were directed to see General Howard and General Abbott was occupying a spectator's chair in the outer office. Clerks addressed him as Major Abbott, no one on the office staff giving him the title of general.

His commission read that he should take office July 1 and the removal of General Howard, which the Governor ordered, was to be one effective July 1. Upon receipt of the commission he refused to accept it, declaring that he thought the Governor had no right to remove Howard, and ordered it to be returned to the governor.

Takes Poison When Wife Denies Him Hidden Liquor

Springfield, July 2—When his wife refused to produce a bottle of whiskey which he had laid aside for the prohibition period George McMann of No 16 Central street, took poison tablets and is now on the danger list at the Mercy Hospital here.

McMann said if he couldn't get a drink he would take some poison tablets in a bottle he found in his search for the liquor.

Michael Ford his father-in-law, thinking to call a bluff poured three of the tablets in a glass of water, and said to McCann, Here if you want to die, take them."

The son-in-law grabbed the glass and drank the contents, and a hurry call was sent in for the hospital ambulance.

PROVIDENCE HAS PLAN FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING

Providence, July 2. The Chamber of Commerce of the city is favorable a plan for daylight saving following the repeal of the national act, and asks chambers of commerce in other cities to do likewise. The plan is to get the municipal government of the city to prescribe a legal setting ahead of the clocks. It is believed that if enough cities do this it would be easy to get the legislature to pass a similar measure that would be signed by Mr. Coolidge that Boston and other Massachusetts cities adopt the plan.

Two Palm Beach Suits

You need two of these modern blessings in your wardrobe. Then when you send one to the laundry, you won't have to stay in bed or go back to a heavy woolen suit, but can slip into your other Palm Beach and go your way rejoicing. Even the darkest patterns in Palm Beach are better for an occasional laundering, provided, of course, that they're tailored as Palm Beaches should be and as these of ours are.

Palm Beach Cloth launders like linen, but it requires a special kind of tailoring to stand the tub. Plenty of makers think they know how to do this kind of tailoring. Only a few, however, really have the knack and a still smaller number are able to fulfil our rigid requirements.

We have Palm Beaches in snappy models for young men and plainer ones for their elders in a wide variety of patterns and colors in addition to the well-known "sand" and "natural" shades—every suit so finely and skilfully tailored that it can look a washtub in the eye without flinching.

DEMPSEY'S OWN STORY

JACK IS NOT WORRYING ONE BIT

Dempsey Knows All About Left Jab of Willard and Has Plan to Evade It

By JACK DEMPSEY

(Copyright 1919 by Newspaper Feature Service)

Toledo, July 2.—After I finished my soft workout, had my bath and rubdown and was dressed, a friend from San Francisco, whom I hadn't seen in a year, arrived at my training camp with the remark, "Why Jack, you don't look a bit nervous or worried." "I'm not," I told him. "I feel as though I was just about to dash madly into a piece of strawberry shortcake."

Well, I had a bunch [illegible] in grand condition, but I figured you would be crabby and on edge. "Well here I am," I said just as you keep on before I tonight I won't be batting for the championship. What will you have, I'll be serious."

"I'll tell you," he answered. "I had a notion that you were more or less open six or seven days and Jess Willard's weird if left hand might have caused you to seriously consider the situation."

That sort of talk didn't kind of makes me laugh. I am now good. We [illegible] and I know how to [illegible] he is going on it. I want to get [illegible] I came to it.

PLANS MAPPED OUT.

I have my plans [illegible] It all mapped out. Naturally I'm not going to explain [illegible] details here but you'll know what's what after [illegible] first [illegible] rings on July 4.

You know [illegible] told me I would be [illegible] I felt [illegible] and I'm [illegible] I had the [illegible] would pay the [illegible] of the [illegible] I'm going to be [illegible] me and it's [illegible] the [illegible] But [illegible] and I would get [illegible] courage. [illegible] I [illegible] they were [illegible] I [illegible] going to be [illegible] and how [illegible] it felt. You know what happened. I brought it off [illegible] in the first [illegible] and [illegible] opened [illegible] and [illegible] he was [illegible] a pretty nap.

WILL GET BY FIRST

And to-day [illegible] is liable to happen to Mr. Willard. I'll get by the first and I [illegible] all right. Don't worry about that.

I know [illegible] he made [illegible] fuss [illegible] about the champ [illegible] I have had some mighty [illegible] sparring partners, several of whom have fooled the big fellow. Will I [illegible]

Let me [illegible] the [illegible] about [illegible] I'm willing to [illegible] I'd be [illegible] and about [illegible] and [illegible] will not [illegible] opponent.

[illegible] I [illegible] and I will be [illegible] to [illegible] Nothing doing. I [illegible] am not [illegible] to [illegible] but I won't be [illegible]

It may be [illegible] of a secret, but I want to tell you that a lot of [illegible] I have taken from Jess Willard, I wouldn't shove out a cream puff jaw to him.

I could have slipped past Tate's left and I can evade the left of the champion. Jess will probably aim for [illegible] but [illegible] a man living can get away from his southpaw.

What I [illegible] may upset him considerably, if I [illegible] that he is hitting thin air when he shoots his left and I will [illegible] into the air, then I believe [illegible] work will be easy. Watch me [illegible] in the Fourth.

TOUGHENED JAW.

Jimmy De Forest [illegible] Kearns and I figured that I should take a lot of wallops on the jaw for the very purpose of strengthening the old facial muscles.

We decided this was necessary, so that in case I had to take a few from Willard, I wouldn't shove out a cream puff jaw to him.

I could have slipped past Tate's left and I can evade the left of the champion. Jess will probably aim for [illegible] but [illegible] a man living can get away from his southpaw.

What I [illegible] may upset him considerably, if I [illegible] that he is hitting thin air when he shoots his left and I will [illegible] into the air, then I believe [illegible] work will be easy. Watch me [illegible] in the Fourth.

Venus and Diana Salute

AS the sunset fades, the crescent moon and the brilliant planet Venus will be seen in resplendent conjunction in the western heavens. Venus is still increasing in splendor and fast drawing nearer to the earth. The scene will suggest a display of celestial jewelry.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1855 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1888 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate, has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

'ROOT AND VAN' LED LOCAL TRADING

Advances Feature Exchange List at Start and All the Morning

Strength prevailed in the Boston market at the start and continued to be characteristic of the session. Root & Van Dervoort was the feature, opening with ¾ gain at 35¾ and selling at 39¾ before the end of the morning. As was the case on its debut here, it was the most active issue. The local market had breadth, but fluctuations averaged small. There was a better tone to copper.

Among strong issues were Old Dominion, Quincy, Greene-Cananea, Arcadian and Warren Brothers, the last named from one to nearly three points at their highest. United Shoe was up a fraction and practically higher, which was true of U. S. Smelting as well. Amoskeag at 124¾ topped its previous highest record price by ¾. Punta Alegre Sugar and Utah Metal & Mineral Land reached a point.

Waldorf was a shade higher and quiet. The Waldorf system has taken over the Waldorf chain of tire stores in Providence and two Lowell stores in New Haven. There are now seventy-nine stores in the system, and it is calculated that recent additions will add $75,000 a year to net earnings.

Local trading in stocks was of good volume.

GOLD EXPORTS SINCE EMBARGO WAS LIFTED

Since the embargo was lifted from gold three weeks ago the amount obtained for export from the United States Assay office in New York totals $68,214,000. The latest withdrawal was $1,251,000 in gold coin for shipment to South America. Most of the gold has gone to South America and was in the form of coin. Exports or engagements of this kind amounting to $52,282,000. Bar shipments aggregate $15,931,600.

The above total includes shipments to Spain, but not the gold sent to the Orient. On Friday last a steamship out of San Francisco had $2,550,000 in gold for China and India.

AUGUST COPPER SELLS AT 19 CENTS A POUND

According to reports from New York yesterday all copper sold for August delivery brought 19 cents a pound. A small amount for July shipment is said to have been sold at 18½ cents a pound.

It was stated in Boston that it was difficult to get July electrolytic at 18¾ cents, while 19 cents was asked for lake. Export transactions last week are said to total from 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 pounds.

Mail Order Business Brisk

According to the report of Sears Roebuck & Co. the mail order business was good in June. The business of this house for the year to date is $15,075,578, an increase of $2,610,518, or 20.95 per cent. over sales for the corresponding 1918 months.

Cotton Irregular at Opening

New York, June 2.—At the opening the cotton market was irregular, prices ranging from twenty points advance to ten down. Southern selling, weather improvement and the Manchester strike news were influences. At the end of fifteen minutes prices were about fifteen points under Tuesday's closing quotations. Opening prices were: July, 33.35; October, 33.00; December, 32.80; January, 32.50; March, 32.35; May, 32.00.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, July 2.—Opening prices at the Board of Trade were: Wheat—July, 1.81¾, September, 1.80 to 1.79¾; December, 1.56 to 1.56; corn—July, 1.70¾ to 1.70¾; September, 1.70 to 1.70; December, 1.72 to 1.71; oats—July, 74¾ to 74¾; September, 68¾ to 68¾; December, 54 to 54.

City and County Loans

Medford, Mass., has sold to Blake Brothers at 4.24 per ✓ discount, plus $1 premium, $100,000 loan, dated July 1, 1919, and maturing June 1, 1939.

Newton, Mass., has been sold to the old Colony Trust Company at 4.20 per cent. discount, plus $1 premium, $50,000 temporary loan, dated July 2 and maturing November 4, 1919.

SUGAR SUPPLY IS BEING CONSUMED

Sugar consumption appears to have increased not only in this country but in Europe and the danger of a shortage is ignored. Neither wholesalers, jobbers, retailers nor households are stocked up to any extent. So far as the trade can learn, sugar sold is being consumed and not stored. The Sugar Equalization Board estimated that stocks per firm on May 1 last were 21.67 tons, only compared with 22.31 on the corresponding 1918 date.

According to a British estimate, sugar consumption in the United Kingdom during May this year was 20,000 tons greater than in May last year.

Corporation Earnings

A local financial publication believes that Wilson & Co. will earn from $40 to $45 a year on its common stock for the present calendar year.

It is said that in April, May and June, net profits of the Carson Hill Gold Mining Co. were $105,000, or more than double those of the first of 1919 quarter. The cost for six months is given as $240,651.

In regard to United States Smelting, Refining and Mining Co.'s profits, it was said yesterday: "Silver operations alone are now yielding at least $500,000 a month or at the rate of $6,000,000 per annum. This is equivalent to $15 a share for the common, present calendar year.

Rights of Small Individuals in the Community

The following is an interesting letter from a physician in Woburn. It touches one of the vital questions of the hour, namely, the duty of the State toward the health of its citizens, not only as men but as producing machines:

Will you write an editorial on the subject—"The Rights of Small Nations and Small Individuals?"

I am asking this on account of the following incident. There was a poor colored man named John Snowden who lived at No. 17 Garfield avenue, Woburn, and he is dead. Sixty days ago he went to the Board of Health and asked that he might be sent to a hospital to rest as his heart was dilated from overwork, and the board said "No." Now the man is dead.

The Board of Health considered this colored man of no economic value, yet a board a short time before in the same building considered him of some economic value as the father of a son that they sent to France to fight for "the rights of small nations and small individuals."

The father is now dead. There will be no Grand Jury investigation, no autopsy, no examination of the stomach to see if there is arsenic, no examination of the heart to see if there is lead in it, and yet he is dead, and therefore others just like him will die before the year is out. Can you call it anything but industrial murder? These individuals awake in the morning and find that they have tuberculosis, kidney trouble or heart disease and must rest for six months. They have worked for twenty years and saved twenty dollars, and when this is gone they must go back to work or their family will starve. That is just what this man did, but just before he died he said "Jesus is my shepherd. I shall not want."

I wonder if the people of Massachusetts can say the same? They were his shepherds and see what they did to him, and some one said: "Massachusetts! There she stands, a beacon light for all the world." (Signed) R. CONLIN, M. D.

We do not understand that Dr. Conlin, the writer of the above letter, criticises the individuals of the Board of Health, but rather that he criticises the system—the social, economic and political system of American civilization which compels the Board of Health to consider the granting of such a request as Snowden made, beyond its jurisdiction.

If a man had a horse whose heart was dilated from overwork and he had any common sense, he would lay up the horse to rest merely as a matter of economic prudence and quite apart from the question of morals involved in the kindness or the brutality of the action. If he had some hunting dogs that he overworked today, he would lay them up tomorrow. If he has a machine in his factory that needs resting for oiling or repairs, he would consider himself an idiot if he wrecked the machine, destroyed its life by working it when it needed to be laid up for repairs.

If Snowden had been a slave his employer would lay him up to rest at the employer's expense until he was able to resume his work efficiently. If when a man is a slave of another he has economic value which makes his health important, does he not have the same economic value to the community which makes his health of equal, if not greater, importance?

There is nothing under the heavens so stupid as the wastefulness of our American democracy in matters of this character. The best that we can say for ourselves is that already the intelligent people are beginning to appreciate what organized labor has told us for years—that men have an economic value to the community worth saving.

The Curse of Drugs

Copyright, 1919, Star Company.

You read in the newspapers of the activity in New York and other great centres of population of committees appointed to campaign against the drug evil.

Have you any idea what that evil amounts to?

Would you believe that out of all the people you know, men, women and children, that two in every hundred are habitual users of some narcotic drug?

Would you think it possible that $20,000,000 worth of morphine, heroin and cocaine are imported into this country every year, and that $20,000,000 worth MORE is brought in by smugglers?

Would you credit the statement that in New York State alone there are estimated to be 15,000 children who are habitual users of habit-forming drugs?

Would you believe that there is enough opium consumed in the United States every year to give every man, woman and child thirty-six doses?

But these are facts.

They are facts compiled by the United States Government, which has become alarmed at the tremendous increase of the use of drugs, especially AMONG YOUNG PEOPLE.

The study of the situation by experts, men representing the Health Service, professors from universities, police authorities and trained investigators has developed some most astounding statistics.

It is estimated that more than $100,000,000 a year is spent by drug addicts for the satisfaction of their craving. The difference between this figure and the $40,000,000 mentioned above as the value of the annual importations indicates the profits made by those who handle the drugs as dealers.

Leading all the rest of the drugs is morphine, but close to it, and likely soon to pass it, is heroin. This latter drug, which is taken in the form of snuff, seems to have a special appeal to boys and girls because they find little trouble in procuring it.

An investigation of a limited number of penal institutions showed that 626 inmates were morphine users and 508 heroin addicts and that few of the latter were more than twenty years old.

Based on the most accurate figures obtainable the per capita consumption of habit-forming drugs in the United States is TWELVE TIMES that recorded in any European country.

The liquor evil has had enough bad features to work its own destruction, but beside the traffic in drugs the sale of liquor is a commendable occupation.

Particularly should there be the most careful investigation of the use of drugs by your boys and girls.

We are happily rid of the curse of whiskey. There cannot be too great provision made against the growth of an even greater evil in the spread of the sale of drugs.

P. S. Under prohibition there is likely to be offered a variety of drinks which will be described "just as good" as whiskey.

Ninety-nine per cent of these concoctions will contain some narcotic drug. They will be extremely dangerous. Keep away from them.

More Truth Than Poetry

CINDERELLA AT THE TABLE.

By JOHN O'KEEFE.

WITH hair of the old night's sable, but eyes of the newer dawn,
Ye stand at the gate of the Table, like a child to a feasting drawn,
And out of the wind of the babel what hear ye, colleen bawn?

"Rise up, O Poland! from the dust
Of hatred's lava, ground by heels!
We hail you as your brothers must,
With all the love a brother feels.
With glistening eye and arms out-thrust
We bid you join the commonweals.
But is that Ireland, gaunt and thin?
She shall not enter in!"

O GIRL of the age-long dreaming that shattered the walls and bars,
Unchaining your star-soul gleaming, to sing with its sister stars!
What word from the Table, teeming with warrants of death for czars?

"Sweet suffering Serbia, arise!
The vulture-eagles all have flown.
Let joy make sunshine in your eyes,
Until to twins of noon they've grown.
This is the light that never dies,
And all its radiance is your own.
But is that Ireland, white of skin?
She shall not enter in!"

O MAID! as ye wear your tatters as never her robes a queen,
Though ever a courtier flatters her majesty's regal mien,
What summons the silence shatters, through worlds and the voids between?

"Come hither, all you little lands—
Poor, beaten babies, starved and frail!
With crimsoned crosses in your hands
And crimson dust along your trail.
We weave for you the golden bands
That make your freedom's bridal veil.
Hail, Czech, and Croat and Slav and Finn!
But Ireland comes not in!"

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 30.

HE WAS wheeling a chair.
ON THE Board Walk.
AND IT was warm.
AND THE perspiration.
STOOD ON his brow.
AND OVERFLOWED.
AND FOLLOWED the lines.
OF HIS wrinkled face.
AND HE'D mop it off.
WITH THE palm of his hand.
AND NEVER stop.
AND HIS clothes were old.
AND HIS shoes were worn.
AND HIS feet were sore.
AND THE man he wheeled.
WAS A happy man.
WITH A sun-tanned face.
AND TAILORED clothes.
AND HEALTH in his eyes.
AND HEALTH in his smile.
AND LOOKING at them.
IT MIGHT have been.
THAT YOU would have said.
IT DIDN'T seem fair.
THAT THE tired man.
WITH HIS worn-out shoes.
AND HIS deep-creased face.
SHOULD BEAR the load.
BUT SO he did.
AND SO he will.
FOR THAT is the law.
OF THE great Board Walk.
THAT THE strong shall ride.
AND THE weak shall walk.
AND THEY traveled along.
THIS UNMATCHED pair.
AND THE man in the chair.
LOOKED OUT on the crowd.
AND THE signs of joy.
AND SAW new things.
AND SMILED as he went,
WHILE THE walking man.
JUST TRUDGED along.
WITH HIS eyes on the walk.
WHILE HE cursed his luck.
THAT THE day was hot.
AND HIS feet were sore.
AND THEY stopped a while.
AND SOMETHING was said.
THAT ON this night.
THE SWINGING doors
SHOULD CEASE to swing.
AND LOCKS should turn.
AND ON tomorrow.
THERE'D BE no saloons.
AND THE man who rode.
SAID HE didn't care.
FOR HE didn't drink.
BUT THE man who trudged.
MADE A great long speech.
ABOUT HIS rights.
AND EXPRESSED the belief.
IF HE wanted a drink.
IT WAS nobody's business.
BUT JUST his own.
AND HE'D drank all his life.
AND HE stood up there.
ON HIS tired feet.
WITH THEIR worn-out shoes.
AND SAID to his face.
"AND SO far as I know.
"THE BOOZE I've drank.
"NEVER HURT me none."

I THANK you.

MEN TO WHOM TREASURES OF NATURE COME

By Garrett P. Serviss

MANY years ago, while hunting in an amateurish way for trilobites in a deep, shady, romantic and wonderful ravine near Ithaca, N. Y., I was suddenly confronted by a young man of my own age, carrying a geological hammer in his hand, who came unexpectedly around a projecting corner of the precipitous rock wall that tottered high above the natural pavement of slate over which a little wrinkling stream slid like a film of liquid diamond. After a few words of greeting I said I was looking for trilobites, but couldn't find any.

"Good place, though," said he, glancing at the broken edges of the layers of slate piled up at his elbow like the tight-pressed leaves of a time-stained book, a hundred feet thick. "Why, here's one now."

He pecked at the foliated stone with his hammer, and out came the dark gray, bow-shaped head and the typical three cross-barred body-lobes as the finest fossil of a trilobite that I had ever seen outside a museum.

Famed As Collector

The man was Herbert Huntington Smith, who had already, by his explorations in Brazil and elsewhere, become known as one of the most expert collectors of natural history specimens in the world.

A few days ago he was killed by a freight train in Alabama. Even at the time when I met him in the ravine he was already quite deaf, and his deafness is said to have contributed to the accident that ended his life.

I had never seen him since the day he found the trilobite for me, but that old, gray fossil, mounted in a little wooden frame, still hangs on the wall in my writing-room, piquing the curiosity of visitors.

The way it was found illustrates a species of human faculty, very interesting to observe in action, and which sometimes gives rise to superstitious notions. It recalls a story told by Emerson about Thoreau. A friend of the latter while walking with him one day lamented his continual failure to find an Indian arrowhead, and said: "If you should ever find one I beg you to give it to me." "They are rare," said Thoreau, stooping and picking up a fragment of earth-covered substance he saw in the sod, "and now that you have an opportunity, you had better examine this." And he presented a fine specimen from which he finished disengaging the earth-rust. As Mr. Emerson told this story to Mr. Woodbury he hinted that he thought the finding of the arrowhead "no accident." He said things "came" to Thoreau, "as they will to lovers of the woods and fields."

Cut out the touch of mysticism, which Emerson always loved to put in because he was a poet, and his statement about things "coming" to such a man as Thoreau was logically sound. Herbert H. Smith, too, had this genius of the finder.

Skill of High Degree

Peculiarities about a rock that the ordinary person would not notice at all were as plain as print to him. In the cottage where he dwelt near the shore of Cayuga Lake, he showed me, the same memorable day when we met in the ravine, a collection of rare fossils, some yet half enveloped in their stone shrouds, that I remember because of their astonishing perfection. They were like statuettes in their delicate beauty. To show me how it was done he removed the remaining stone from some half disengaged specimens. But, all the same, I did not see how it was done any more than one sees how a prestidigitator performs his apparently impassible feats. Blows that if struck by me would have smashed the fossil into dust, when dealt by him simply unshelled it and it rolled easily out of the bed of its million-year nap. Of course, this was acquired skill—but, then, it was something more, too.

BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER

GLADNESS IN A WORLD OF BEAUTIFUL COLORS

By Winifred Black

DEAR WINIFRED BLACK:

This is a request. Please write an article on Greenwich Village which does not deal with "Free Unions."

You do know, don't you, that there are people living there and who have lived there for many years, long before "Free Unionism" ever heard of the place and before the Greenwich Villagers ever heard of "Free Unions," and who do hold to the old-fashioned ideas of duty, honor, self-respect and natural love, and who will continue to do so?

Why not write about this type, for I assure you they are so much appalled, dismayed, and even more so than those who have heard Greenwich Village spoken of as only a quaint, dark, crumbling and immoral neighborhood.

Such an article would surely be appreciated by the large number of people living in the village who aren't "nuts."

Very truly yours,
PEG M. W.

EHUE!

Alas!

Ah me!

Here's a sigh from Greenwich Village!

Now, then, all ye faithful who dwell outside New York, you're wondering what on earth Greenwich Village is, aren't you?

You remember vaguely that you've heard of it. It is a kind of Spotless Town in an ad—or was there a play written about it? or—well, I'll put you out of your misery.

Greenwich Village is a little strip of quaint Old New York.

It's full of atmosphere, but not very full of air. Do you see what I mean?

No, you wouldn't unless you'd been there and had rented a great big barn of a room and called it a studio, and shared what little light you got with the rats and the black beetles and the artists in the next studio, who never would take in their milk bottles in time to keep the milk from turning sour.

What It's Like

Greenwich Village is full of rickety old houses and stumbly old steps, and smelly old drainage, and leaky old gas jets, spotty old bathtubs—there are more smells to an inch in Greenwich Village than there are anywhere in America outside of certain quarters in New Orleans and a certain wind-swept hill in San Francisco.

If you want to run away with somebody else's husband and say nothing about it, you may step over to Boston for your honeymoon.

In the Village

But if you want to get out an extra about the affair, you go down to Greenwich Village, hire a studio apartment and give a breakfast at 3 o'clock in the morning to which you invite the policemen on the beat, the ragpicker from the square, all your first husband's relatives, your own mother's divorced husband, the man who deserted your sister and her three helpless children, an Anglican clergyman, some writers of free verse, a painter, or two, your maiden aunt, and the leader of the last most scandalous surprise dance from the fastest cabaret in town—and you couldn't do it and make a success of it anywhere on this footstool except in Greenwich Village.

If you're one of a clever young couple and you want to paint or write, or act, or make statues, or weave tapestry—you gravitate to Greenwich Village as naturally as a moth gravitates to a flame.

And when you get there you can live quite as simply and quite as decently, and quite as sanely and quite as normally as you can live anywhere else on earth, and you can have the fun of running to the window every night from seven till midnight to watch the villagers going forth to gambol on the green, and wonder who on earth started the fashion for elderly ladies to bob their hair and learn to do "temperamental dances."

Free unions? Yes, they do flourish in Greenwich Village, but so, thank heaven, do love and honor, and duty and simple faith and kindly human nature.

Come on, let's all go down to the Village and be really natural—for a few minutes.
